INTRODUCTION & BRIEF HISTORY

This course is designed to teach and guide the students to know and learn about Public Relations. In this course we will try to acquaint you with various aspects and applications in different Public Relations situations and requirements. Besides teaching you about the introduction and history of Public relations This will guide students through its role in different modes and in varied segments. We will also apprise about its importance, explain different designs and templates of its applications. The major components to learn will be its skills in modern world, the overall importance and significance of its practice in normal and crisis situations.

After going through the contents of first lecture, students will be able to know about Public Relations and its origin as given below:

- A. Introduction to Public Relations.
- B. History of Public Relations.
- C. Meaning of Public Relations.
- D. Techniques of Public Relations.

Lecture Overview

This lecture introduces the students with the background, meaning and history of Public Relations. During this we will be discussing the above mentioned three aspects of Public Relations. We will also briefly try and identify the techniques of public relations used in the olden days and compare these with modern day techniques.

Introduction

In fact the subject of public relations is not new and it has been there and in practice since time immemorial. Man has always tried and wanted to communicate to make him understand, e.g. Pictograms (Chinese characters are still an example).1000 of years ago wall paintings in the caves of primitive people, Writings on tablets of stone, ancient buildings , pyramids, early temples , mosques , cave paintings in Zimbabwe bear pictorial messages. Holy Books also communicate and tell people about faith. So, it will be appropriate to say that public relations are as new as civilization.

Let us now first of all try to know and understand about public relations.

Meaning Of Public Relations

Now a days PR is misunderstood and supposed to try & create a favorable image or climate of opinion and/or improve a tarnished image. This is not true. This is only marketing & advertising which is only a segment of PR. PR is about creating and understanding through knowledge which often involves effective change. So it means that PR is a form of Communication which applies to any sort of organization, commercial or non-commercial in the private or public sector.

Definitions Of Public Relations

The universally accepted definition of public relations as per Edward Burneys popularly known as the Father of PR is that :

- “It is a planned & sustained effort to establish and maintain mutual understanding between an organization & its publics.
- ”However, Quentin Bell, another PR consultant thought the word persuasion would be better than mutual understanding.
- Some PR professionals also described PR as a “phenomenon & necessity of our times.”

Yet there is a very simple and different definition for easy comprehension of Public Relations.

Simple Definition

For better understanding if we take the two initials of the word Public Relations i.e. P and R then we define “P” for Performance for Public and “R” for Result as against Relations.

Different Techniques Of PR

In the olden days for PR purposes people used Pictograms (Chinese characters are still an example.), 1000 of years ago Wall Paintings in the caves about primitive people , Writings on Tablets of stone, Ancient Buildings e.g. pyramids , early temples & mosques ,cave paintings in Zimbabwe bear pictorial messages. Holy Books communicated and told people about faith. while these days bill boards, hand outs, print and electronic Media, sponsorships , free sampling, corporate identity practices , audio and video mediums , conferences , seminars Special Offers , etc. are few of the visible PR techniques used to achieve defined objectives.

HOW DOES PR WORK.OVERVIEW

In this lecture we will study the different aspects relating to the public relations subject with special reference to its working, different phases of public relations which affect people's attitude. Besides this we will identify various classifications of organizations. The students will also be told about what public relations aims to accomplish and what are the dos and don'ts of practicing public relations. Finally we will determine the keys to success in public relations profession.

How does PR work.

Whether the PR of an organization is sound or not depends upon the type of organization and on a situation at a given time. It is therefore imperative that we should assess as to how does PR serve various organizations. Let us therefore first of all classify the type of organizations.

Classification of Organizations

1. A business corporation.
2. A trade organization
3. A non profit organization.
4. A public utility company.
5. A communication medium
 - a) Newspapers.
 - b) Radio stations.
 - c) TV channels.
6. An educational institution.
7. A financial institution.
8. A religious group.
9. A political party.
10. A labour union.
11. 11. A travel group.
12. A government agency.

Although PR activity / Plan will vary from different classification of organizations yet basic and broad principles would remain common. Let us analyze and determine various phases of PR for organizations. At this time we will only remain confined to the general principles and at later stage we will discuss them specifically. Basically the hallmark of good PR policy is to attract and achieve the goodwill of the concerned public. We therefore consider 5(Five) Phases of different factors which influence people's attitude.

5 Different Phases which Affect People's Attitude.

A Public relations for business today involves complete analysis and understanding of all the factors that influence people's attitudes towards a company. It usually has five phases:

I. Determining the attitude of public towards the company/ organization.

This may be the employees, the customers, the shareholders, or some other segment of the public. When the attitudes are known, it is possible to see where the company is misunderstood and where its policies and actions are creating unfavorable opinion.

II. Analyzing the state of opinion.

It may be that investigation discloses unrest among a group of employees – unrest that may well break out into very serious uprising. Or the shareholders may express the desire to know more about the company and its products.

III. Formulation of policy.

Analysis may indicate that certain policies of the company should be modified to improve the attitude held by certain groups. Often the change involves eliminating causes of misunderstanding and misinterpretation.

IV. Planning means of improving opinion/attitude of public.

With an understanding of what people think of the company and a clarification of the company's policies on matters that affect public opinion, the groundwork has been laid. Next comes the programming of activities that will explain the company and its products, will overcome misunderstanding and will promote goodwill.

Implementing planned activities.

The tools of public relations -- publicity , institutional advertising , printed materials, employee activities, shareholders reports, company publications and other things – are then employed to do the job.

What does Public Relations Accomplish?

There are many objectives that may be achieved through expert public relations activity. Any one of them ,any group of them, or all of them may be the basis for accompany 's public relations program. Professional public relations direct every activity toward reaching a selected objective; extraneous efforts are avoided – mere volume of press clippings is meaningless. Objectives that may be sought include:

- Prestige or favorable image and its benefits.
- Promotion of product and sales, idea and rewards.
- Goodwill of Employees.
- Prevent and solve Labor problem.
- Goodwill of stock / shareholders.
- Overcoming misconceptions and prejudices against the Company/group/organization.
- Goodwill of customers/consumers.
- Formulation and guidance for making policies.

Do'S and Don'ts IN PUBLIC RELATIONS.

A public relations all in all is a tough job. But all said and done it is worthwhile to render such services. These services are needed and recognized on a rapidly broadening scale. But these are already being accepted quite universally. In order to practice public relations there are certain do's and don'ts which are identified below:

- Do not try to run a business without knowing / learning a great deal about the people you have to do business with – employees, investors, suppliers, customers – in other words, Your publics.
- If you are overcommitted and cannot give enough thought to PR then hire someone to assist you.
- Do not rely upon public relations techniques to “mop up” after mistakes are made. Always use public relations thinking before any new policy or practice is developed.
- Be sure people close to you understand your public relations thinking and your program.
- Seek the assistance of your executives and employees in developing good public relations.
- Do not depend upon too much on your own guesswork regarding what others feel and think. Use adequate and objective surveys.

- Try to select a very few points --- preferably just one -- that you want to get across to any given public. Then concentrate your PR effort on establishing that viewpoint.
- Never forget that PR should be supported by Performance that deserves goodwill of your public i.e. Result.

Keys to Success in Public Relations

1. MANAGEMENT MUST UNDERSTAND AND COOPERATE WITH PR ACTIVITY.

The busy senior executive needs to take some time out for concentrated study of public relations, calling on specialists for guidance and practical assistance, as he does in other phases of his business. In policy formation he should remember that public relations serves as a voice of conscience as well as useful business technique. In fact sufficient emphasis should be placed on management as without the understanding and support of management it will be impossible for public relations to aid in policy formation.

2. PUBLIC RELATIONS COUNSELLER / MANAGER MUST BE OF SOUND CHARACTER.

To be successful the key factor is that the public relations manager should be highly sensitive to the thoughts and feelings of other persons. Forgetting his personal reactions and beliefs, he must put himself in the other person's shoes. He should concentrate his efforts on finding desirable ways and means of getting his viewpoints presented effectively. All this should be supported by his sound character , conviction and personal ethics of the highest standards.

PUBLIC RELATIONS DISTINGUISHED.

Overview

In this lecture we will try and distinguish public relations from other activities in which an organization indulges to project its image or for the conveying of a particular message to the target public. We will distinguish public relations from advertising, marketing, sales promotion, publicity and propaganda. This will enable the students to precisely know the difference between these various applications of public relations.

Difference between PR & Advertising

Public relations and advertising are normally confused to be same, which is not at all true or correct. The best way to distinguish it from advertising will be to first of all try and define advertising and public relations. This definition will clearly explain the difference.

Advertising presents the most persuasive possible selling message to the right prospects for the product or service at the lowest possible cost. While public relations role is of informing, educating & creating understanding through knowledge for the same product. In fact advertising will be more successful when prior PR activity has created knowledge and understanding of the product or service being promoted --- also known as Market Education. Therefore advertising is merely a tool of public relations, where by market research PR manager decides type of advertising and on this basis determines choice & use of media. So to sum up following will explain the difference between PR and advertising.

1. PR is not a form of advertising, and is in fact bigger activity than advertising.
2. PR relates to all the communications of the total organizations, while advertising is mainly limited to marketing functions.
3. PR is neither “free advertising” nor “unpaid for advertising”. In fact it is time consuming & time costs money.
4. At times advertising may not be used by an organization, but every organization is involved in PR.
5. PR embraces every one & everything, while advertising is limited to special selling & buying tasks
6. Marketing is the management process responsible for identifying, anticipating & satisfying customer requirements profitably.
7. PR is about creating & understanding through knowledge “Market Education” the basis of effective marketing policy as it has to be applied to every part of marketing mix.

Difference Between PR & Sales Promotion

Sales promotion consists of short term schemes, usually at the point of sales, but also in direct response marketing, to launch products or to revive or increase sales. At times sales promotion may have PR aspects yet it is not PR.

PR is confused with sales promotion, mainly because Sales promotion brings the producer closer to consumer. Sales promotion consists of short / long term specific schemes while PR takes care of larger benefits through broad based plans based on knowledge.

Difference Between PR & Propaganda

Propaganda is the means of gaining support for an opinion, creed or belief. This is another form of communication & by no means PR. Successful PR must be credible, whereas propaganda is liable to invite suspicion or at least disagreement.

Difference Between PR & Publicity

A simple definition would explain publicity as resulting from information being made known. So as

- Publicity results from information being made known by PR plan.
- PR is very much about the behavior of individuals, organizations, products & services.
- Publicity only yields an image, subject to PR which provides adequate knowledge for that image.

Public Relations Department

When a company is engaged in lot of PR work then it is recommended that it should be handled through the company's internal Public Relations Department.

The PR Practitioner is more of an All Rounder. He is at the same time a communicator, advisor and a campaign planner.

Size of a PR Department.

PR department may be large or small depending upon:

- a) Size of the organization.
- b) Value placed on PR by management;
- c) Special PR requirements of the organization.

Taking (c) a stage further, a mass consumer product manufacturer may spend much more on advertisement than on PR, while a technical or industrial company may spend little on advertisement but rely strongly on PR.

PR Department Staff

The PR department may consist of no more than a PR Manager and a secretary with word processing capability. Depending upon the activity & size of operation the organization may have Press officer, photographer and a presentation specialist. See chart below for possible staffing of a PR department in a large manufacturing company.

Role Of PR Manager

PR manager is the executive who manages the company's PR. His / Her responsibilities can be;

- To set the targets or define objectives for PR operations;
- To estimate the working hours and other resources that needs to be costed.
- To decide priorities that will control the choice of publics, media to reach them, timing of operations , best use of manpower and other resources such as equipment etc.
- To decide the feasibility of carrying out the declared objectives in the light of available funds, existing staff and equipment etc.

Four Fold Specialist Task Of PR Manager

1. To establish and maintain a correct image of the organization and its policies, products, services and personnel.
2. Monitor outside opinion & convey this intelligence to management;
3. Advise management on communication problems, solutions & techniques;

Inform all publics about policies, activities, products, services & personnel so that maximum knowledge & understanding is won.

A Typical Organization Chart Of A PR Department

PUBLICS OF PR

Overview

PLANNING PUBLIC RELATIONS PROGRAMMES

Overview

This lecture will explain about the methods and essentials of planning public relations program. It is important to consider and determine as to how these can be planned for tangible results. Although once again we will be talking on broad scale yet this can be adapted to suit particular or more modest requirements.

4 Reasons for Planning PR Programmes.

1. Set targets for PR Operation -- (Against which results can be assessed.)
2. Estimate the working hours and other costs involved for such PR Plan.
3. Select priorities which will control the number and timing of different operations in the program.
4. Decide feasibility of carrying out declared objectives according to availability of:
 - Sufficient staff of proper caliber.
 - Specific equipment like computers, cameras, vehicles etc.
 - Adequate Budget.

6 Point PR Planning Model

In order to plan a successful and result oriented PR plan following model should be adopted;

- Appreciation of the situation.
- Definition of objectives.
- Definition of publics.
- Selection of media & techniques.
- Planning of a budget.
- Assessment of results.

Let us now study the above enumerated parameters of successful PR plan model individually.

Appreciation Of The Situation

Methods Of Appreciating A Situation

In order to prepare an effective strategy to counter a situation it is important that the gravity of situation should first be assessed and appreciated. Following are the universally tried and accepted methods of appreciating a situation.

- Opinion, attitude or image surveys.
- Press clippings, monitored broadcasting scripts.
- Sales figures trends & sales report indications,

- State of competition within & from imports.
- Share price if Public Company, dividends, balance sheet etc.
- Industrial relation situation.
- Customer complaints, test reports & product performance.
- Discussion with sales force & distributors.
- Prices & effect of price changes.
- Market forces, economic, social & political.

Definition Of Objectives.

1. Change the image because company has changed its activities.
2. Improve the caliber of job applicants.
3. Tell people about little known story of the company & gain credit for achievement.
4. Make company known & understood in new local & international markets.
5. Prepare stock market for a new share launch.
6. Improve community relations following public criticism based on misunderstanding of company's intention.
7. Educate installers, users or consumers about the product.
8. Regain public confidence after a disaster which had portrayed company as inefficient in any way, the cause having been rectified.
9. Establish a new corporate identity.
10. Support a sponsorship scheme.
11. Make politicians better informed about company's activities, perhaps because of some impending legislation which could affect the company unfavorably.
12. Propagate company's research activities.

When we determine the objectives it is essential that we should first of all identify the public we want to target from various publics, as already enumerated in the previous lectures also. Broadly speaking there are two major publics classified as internal and external while following are the expanded publics in the modern day.

Expanded Publics.

- The Community.
- Potential Employees.
- Employees.
- Suppliers of services & materials.
- Investors --- the money market.
- Distributors.
- Consumers & users.
- Opinion leaders.

Selection of Media & Techniques.

Once the objectives have been worked out and the publics selected, it will be necessary to select the media and technique to be adopted for the achievement of the desired objectives. It is important as in relation to the objectives, determined publics identified, only the selection of proper public will yield positive results. Following is the classification of different media as in use in the present days.

Print Media

1. Press.
2. Printed Material.
3. Direct Mail.
4. House Journals

Electronic Media

1. Radio
2. Television.

Misc. Media

1. Exhibitions.
2. Air balloons & ships.
3. Electronic Bill Boards.

While determining the media and required techniques it is essential and important that before launching a public relations plan a budget should also be worked out. In this context following is the five point strategy.

5 Points For Planning PR Budget

1. To determine, what will it cost to carry out a PR Plan.
2. What sort of plan can be carried out for a given sum of money?
3. After agreeing to a cost & Plan, budget provides a check list to tasks, to be done as per a time table.
4. Budget sets a discipline for both expenditure & over - expenditure.
5. After completion of campaign, results can be measured against the budget.

Assessment Of Results

Once all essentials like objectives, proper identification of publics and selection of media and techniques are in place and the cost involved for such plan has been worked out on the above explained strategy, it is imperative that an assessment should be made with regard to the public relations plan about the results or achievement of the objectives on following lines even if these may be qualitative and not quantitative.

- Evaluate results.
- Adopt proper evaluating methods.
- Compare results against Objectives.

Sometimes the results may not be measurable statistically, but by experience and self evident qualities such as the evidence that now job applicants are better educated and more proficient or in some other way more suitable than before. These are basically the qualitative results. However, the quantitative results may show increased sales, awareness and reduced number of complaints, increased job applicants, oversubscription of shares or even increased number of mentions of the company name in the media.

PRESS RELATIONS IN PR

Overview

In this lecture we will study about press relations. Basically what are its methods and how does a PR professional maintain these and what are basic ingredients for good press relations. The students will also be apprised about the definition of press relations and explain about News and news releases and how should these be written.

6 Points For Good Press Relations

A good public relations practitioner will take following six steps to maintain good relations with the press

1. He will maintain TWO way Relationship.
2. He will by his conduct establish reputation of reliability.
3. The press will always provide good copy.
4. He will always cooperate with the press in providing material.
5. As and required he will provide Verification Facilities.
6. The PR practitioner will build personal rapport with the Media

Definition

- The word Press, as commonly known should not be confined to press. It covers all news media, like, radio, TV & cinema.
- The objective of press relations is to 'create knowledge & understanding.' and not what the employer or client wants to be printed for favorable mentions
- All press material should be of 'interest & value' to the readers, listeners or viewers, as the material is likely to be used and the resultant publicity will ultimately please the client or employer.

What is News.

'News is information which is not already known to recipients.

News Release.

Whenever a news release has to be prepared following essential points should be kept in mind.

1. The test of a PR story.

It means that it has news worthiness i.e. the information will be of interest to readers and is therefore worth publishing.

2. Bad releases are bad PR.

A news release creates an image of the organization in the critical eye of the editors. A badly written release will create a very bad impression of the sender's organization.

3. Good presentations.

Primarily following 4 things contribute to happier relations .with the press.

1. Releases should be composed in the style acceptable to journalists.
2. Release should be in manuscript style, and not in business letter style.
3. Releases should be appropriate to the journals to which they are sent.
4. Carefully select journals to which releases are sent and moreover send them well ahead of time of publication.

How Should The News Releases Be Written)

The easiest way to learn how to write news release is to study newspaper reports and observe how they are written: there is a special technique. Following TWO fundamental characteristics will be apparent from reading newspapers.

- A. The subject is stated in the opening words.
- B. The opening paragraph is a summary of the whole story.

(The 7 Point Formula

1. Subject - What is the story about?
2. Organization - What is the name of Organization?

3. Location - Where is the organization located?
4. Advantages - What is new? What are the benefits?
5. Details – What are the colors, sizes, prices, performance figures or other details?
6. Applications – What are the uses & who are the users?
7. Source – Is this different from location, e.g. location might be where the work is done, source will be the head office.

(Model Layout Of A Press Release)

WHY 7 Point Formula?

The value of the above 7 point formula can be summarized as below:

1. It provides a Checklist of data before writing a press release.
2. It is the plot for the release, indicating the sequence of information.
3. It provides a checklist to apply after writing the release.
4. It proposes an orderly sequence of information.
5. First paragraph should always state the subject, the name of the organization(although not the full business address.)
6. Last paragraph should state full name, address and telephone numbers of the organization.

Secrets Of Good News Release.

In order to explain further following key points are enumerated below for writing a good news release.

- Good press release should have short paragraphs, , short sentences & simple words.
- The story should not be more than ONE page.
- The superlatives should always be avoided ,such as “the world’s biggest”
- Avoid vague generalizations like ‘economical - money saving’ etc.
- Do not use cliches like “unique, wide range, this point in time “etc.
- Do not quote remarks from leaders unless they have something special and or original to say.

Presentation of a News Release.

For effective and authentic news release following points should never be ignored as the release is a manuscript.

- Press releases should be typed on printed letter head.
- Important points should be given headlines.
- Subheadings will help in emphasizing points.
- Indented paragraphs will always give good looks and effective response.
- Capital Letters should be used only when necessary.
- Underlining special points will help in easy identification.
- Full points or full stops in abbreviations should only be used when necessary.
- Figures. Will substantiate your message or claims.
- Dates are important for up to date information..
- Continuations will inform the reader that the story is still continuing.
- Quotation Marks are essential for quoting sayings.
- Authorship gives the ownership of the story or release.

CREATED PRIVATE MEDIAOverview

In this lecture information will be provided about various created private media, its different kinds and their importance. We will also explain about various types and points regarding house journals; and how to plan them. We will also deal with methods of assessing results and matters pertaining to market research, its importance and how to conduct it.

In order to reach certain publics to achieve particular objectives, the mass media of press, radio and television may not be appropriate, especially if these publics comprise small or specialized groups. One public which comes to mind is the staff (or the membership) who may be best reached by house journal. The main forms of such created private media are given below.

Private Media.

Evaluating Results

Once all parameters of a public relations plan are in place, it is imperative to evaluate the results to determine the success and benefits accrued from such plan. There can be basically two types of results;

2 Kinds Of Results.

Qualitative. These cannot be measured statistically. Many results of PR activity will be of this kind, that is, these will be only judged by experience and self-evident qualities e.g. the evidence that the job applicants are now better educated, more proficient or in some other way more suitable than in the past.

Quantitative. These are statistics based results. These are generally self evident results which are seen or experienced for instance a percentage increase in awareness , a reduced number of complaints, improved sales etc..

Methods of Assessment.

By Enquiries Received. When media coverage produces direct enquiries their numbers can be totaled, and if they are converted into sales their value can also be calculated.

By Statistical Data. Readership figures and audience ratings can be a good measure.

By Source. Another good method of evaluating media coverage is to give values to each newspaper or magazine and so arrive at a source for each news release issued. This will vary from product to product, but for understanding purpose let us take the value of a financial /commercial /stock market story i.e. press release, following chart will explain the rating valuations. However it will be totally different in case of house hold products or consumer goods.

Newspapers	Financial Story	Household Goods, etc.
Daily Business Recorder	12	4
Daily Dawn	10	8
Daily Jang	9	12
Daily News	8	7
Daily Nation	7	6
Daily Nawa-i-Waqt	6	11
Daily Khabrain	5	10
Daily Pakistan	4	9
T O T A L	61	67

Opinion Polls. The shift of opinion or the extent of awareness can be measured by means of an opinion poll. If samples of relevant publics are interviewed after every six months, it is possible to measure the upward or downward trend of these shifts.

Media Feedback. If the media have shown misunderstanding, skepticism or hostility in the past, does the media now is well informed and more sympathetic? This could be direct result of Public relations activity such as news releases, feature articles, press information service, press receptions and facility visits.

Marketing Research.

Definition

‘A branch of social science which uses scientific methods to collect information about markets for goods & services.’

Research Terminology

Marketing research has its own special language. Some of the terms have lay meanings and the student ought to be careful to understand the precise research meanings of the following terms.

1. Population or universe –in marketing research both words mean the total number of people relevant to a particular survey. e.g. all dentists, or university students depending upon the subject of study.
2. Respondent or interviewee - A person questioned in a survey.
3. Sample – This should not be confused with a ‘free sample’, in fact it means a survey of a proportion of the population or universe to be questioned.
4. Characteristics - distinctions which are known to exist in the population.
5. Sampling frame - specification of the kinds of people.
6. Random walk - list of names & addresses may not exist. Random method calling homes like select every 10th house.
7. Structured interview – conducted with a prepared questionnaire.
8. Depth interview – one with no prepared questionnaire.
9. Questionnaire. A specially devised format has to be prepared to meet the demand the particular survey requirement.
10. Social grades – classification of people into socio economic groups based on incomes. Can be a very effective and useful method of survey for the assessment of results.

Marketing Research Methods

Published Survey Findings. For various purposes beginning with the census of population, surveys may have been made by official, institutional or commercial organizations. These findings may have been published and made available to concerned and interested parties.

Commissioned Surveys. For marketing and advertising purposes the PR practitioner may have commissioned surveys and the results could be helpful when determining the current image and planning a PR program.

Advertising Media Research. Advertising media research could be useful when measuring press readership and television ,radio and poster audiences.

Original Or Primary Research. As a matter of appreciating the situation (using image studies or opinion /attitude surveys) and of monitoring the progress and success of PR campaign, original research can be commissioned.

Types of Research

- Desk Research – It is basically a study of existing statistics and survey reports.
- Field Research – This normally done by interviewing people ‘in the field’, as when interviewers contact respondents.
- Ad hoc Research – This means one - off surveys, complete in one project only.
- Continuous Research – These are the surveys carried out regularly e.g. monthly, thus recording changes or trends.

Marketing Research Techniques.

- Opinion, attitude or shift surveys. These are usually for seeking “yes” or “no”, ”don’t know”, answers, often continuous or at least repeated at regular intervals to know what people know, think or believe and to measure changes or shifts in awareness opinions or beliefs.
- Consumer Panels. A panel is a recruited group of respondents who serve more or less permanently to answer questions or to test products.
- Motivational Research. This research seeks by means techniques similar to those used in clinical and intelligence testing, to reveal hidden motives, instead of stated opinions.
- Discussion Group. This is a much modified and less expensive form of motivational research.
- Tele(phone) Questionnaire. Surveys of distant or scattered respondents can be conducted by pre arranged telephone interview. This can be pretty useful in industrial research.

– Postal Questionnaire. This is posted to respondents and return of the completed forms will depend upon the extent to which the respondents are motivated or will cooperate, perhaps because they are committed to the subject.

– Coupon Survey. This is a survey published in the press, but it has the obvious weakness that only those very interested will bother to submit answers.

– Dealer, retail or shop audit. This is in fact a form of continuous research, whereby the stocks and invoices of a recruited panel of dealers are checked at regular intervals. The figures are taken of goods bought and remaining in stock thus revealing how various brands are moving out of the shops, making comparison between rival brands, and in the aggregate showing the market share of each brand.

– Qualitative Research. This is like depth interviewing, which overcomes some of the difficulties which hamper research in developing countries where facilities are different from those in industrial countries.

– Image study. The object of an image study is to compare the strengths and weaknesses of a number of similar companies, of which the sponsor is one although not identified as such to respondents.

Press Events. --- 3 kinds.

1. Conference.
2. The Press Reception.
3. The Facility visit.

How to organize?

- Plan the reception well in advance, so that all pros and cons are considered ahead of time.
- Choose a convenient venue. Location always plays a vital role as easy access will not only improve image but will also attract larger audience.
- Send invitations to selected named guests in good time. (May vary). Although the list may vary but enough time margin should be given for dignitaries and celebrities to plan well in advance to attend them.
- State the time table on the invitation card. This will let the guests know about the plan of events.
- Make sure catering is good & adequate. This helps in good image and leaves a good taste about the whole event.
- Rehearse & time speakers. It is important so that the whole program runs according to schedule.
- Make sure everything required is provided on time. This will leave good impression on the audience.

- Provide adequate press information, but do not overload. This will enable the press to report appropriately and your angle will be more or less projected.
- Identify staff from guests with different colored badges. It is essential for ushering and help to the guests and also differentiate for better service.
- Get on with business on time & stick to timetable. It helps in swift and quick culmination of the proceedings.
- Do not mix journalists with other guests like customers.
- Have enough hosts to take care of the guests. Ensure those guests are properly taken care of for better service resulting in better PR.

SPECIAL USES OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

Overview

In this lecture we will look at some of the areas where Public relations has been particularly beneficial to organizations in recent years. This will also demonstrate the versatility of PR, and show how it satisfies the needs of leaders of industry, commerce and in other fields. It will also answer the criticism of the PR practitioners that management rarely understands and appreciates PR. This lecture will also explain as to how the managements of these days have discovered the need for PR. Besides this it will also cover the skills of PR and methods of presentations

- Crisis Management...Likely & unlikely. There is hardly any company or organization which does not pass through some kind of crisis in its life. It is imperative that a crisis management program should be in place to effectively counter such a situation, like having a permanent crisis management team, who should take cognizance of crisis both likely and unlikely.
- Desk top Publishing. The printed house journal, the world's oldest form of organized PR for now more than 170 years. The print has the permanence and portability which can be retained and read almost anywhere at any time and by a wide readership. Desk top publishing has made this very simple and effective.
- Corporate Identity. The creation of corporate identity scheme is often a PR responsibility, because it applies to all aspects of an organization and is significant part of total communication.
- Parliamentary Liaison. It covers relations between organizations, perhaps using specialist consultants with the government, houses of the parliament. PR helps to create a favorable lobby on various counts and for different reasons and objectives. Basically it is of two kinds; firstly, keeping politicians and civil servants aware of an organization's interests, and secondly; keeping organizations aware of parliamentary activities and procedures.
- Financial PR. Financial PR has become very important growth area, calling for special knowledge, calling for special knowledge of the financial world, and how it works..

BUDGETING IN PR

Overview

In this lecture we will look at the most important aspect of public relations i.e. budgeting. We will establish the need for it and its important elements. We will also look at the importance of photography in Public relations and how to use it effectively without it being wasteful.

Like any other plan budgeting is very important for a PR program and PR department. Let us discuss what is the need for budgeting?

Why Budgeting

1. To learn what will it cost to carry out a PR Program.
2. Or; to learn what sort of program can be carried out for a given sum of money.
3. Budgeting helps in controlling the program cost.
4. Budgeting provides a discipline for both expenditure & over- expenditure.
5. After completion of campaign, results can be measured against the budget.

Elements of a PR Budget.

– Elements.

- Labour.
Includes salaries. Biggest component.
- Office Overheads.
Fixed costs electricity, rent, insurance etc.
- Materials.
Items like stationery, postage, print, visual aids, and mobile exhibitions stands etc.
- Expenses.
Out of pocket expenses, expenses of organizing PR events e.g. catering, Public address system, TV, screens, video players, chairs, tents etc.

PR Budget for a large organization.

Following are few of the important expense headings.

PR & Photographs

Photographs play a very important role in PR activities.

3 Public Relations Requirements

1. How to tell a story with pictures.
2. The sort of pictures editors want.
3. How to work with a photographer.

6 ways to avoid wasteful distribution of pictures.

1. Pictures should be sent to only those publications who are likely to print them
2. Editors may be phoned & asked if they would like a picture to be printed with the story.
3. Pictures can be reproduced on the news release, & editors invited to request prints.
4. If there is a set of pictures then, a sheet of miniatures can be sent enabling editors to choose.

5. At the foot of the release one can state that pictures are available.
6. Color pictures should only be sent if requested.

Why Photo Captions?

Without captions the recipient does not know:

- What is the picture about?
- Who sent it?
- Who owns the copyrights?

PR Uses Of Photography.

- To build a photographic library;
- To provide / supply with press releases;
- To illustrate feature articles;
- As picture stories, sometimes in sets;
- For window & showroom displays;
- For display in seminars, press receptions & other events;

- For illustrating house journals;
- For stills as used in TV studio backgrounds to speakers or during news Bulletins.

How to produce good pictorial material!

- Presentations & handshakes.
- People at work.
- Human interest.
- Large objects.
- ‘Busy’ pictures.
- Perspectives.
- Color pictures.
- Flat or profile pictures.
- Impression of size.
- Name display.

Lesson 11

PUBLIC RELATIONS PROBLEMSOverview

This lecture will cover the problems which a PR practitioner has to face in the course of his performance. We will define the problems and its causes and how to resolve them. We will identify the crisis and will explain the strategy to overcome them besides warning against common mistakes which could be made to solve them.

4 Step Problem Solving Process

1. Defining the problem (or opportunity).
2. Planning & Programming.
3. Taking action & communicating.
4. Evaluating the program.

Defining PR problems.(Problem Statement)

-- Written in present tense, a problem statement describes a situation in specific & measurable terms.

- What is the source of concern?
- Where is this problem?
- When is it a problem?
- Who is involved or affected?
- How are they involved or affected?
- Why is this concern to the organization & its public?

To develop action & communication strategies with a detailed analysis of the problems of target publics.

4 Questions Need Answering.

1. How much do people use information in the problem situation?
2. What kinds of information do people use?
3. How do people use information?
4. What predicts information use?

Mission of Public Relations Is to help the organization achieve its mission by:

- Collecting & analyzing information on the changing knowledge, opinion & behaviors of key publics & stakeholder groups.
- Serving as the central source of information about an organization and as the official channel of communication between an organization & its publics.
- Communicating significant information, opinions, & interpretations to keep an organization's public & other stakeholders aware of organizational policies & actions.
- Coordinating activities that affect an organization's relationships with its publics & other stakeholder groups.

How does PR work to solve problems?

1. A searching look backwards!
2. A wide look around!
3. A deep look inside!
4. A long, long, look ahead!

— Basically it is "learn – feel – do" theme which guides PR program for solving problems"

Lesson 12

METHODS OF COMMUNICATIONOverview

Practicing Public Relations is a psychology in itself. We will determine the importance of it and also explain and define various methods of communication. We will also explain the different communication methods for various companies as well.

Psychology of Public Relations

--- Basically the purpose of public Relations is to “create understanding & knowledge.”

--- But come what may, the message should be short & simple. As for example The word “STOP” is simpler than “Do not move” “or Stay where you are”.

How Do We Communicate?5 Main methods

1. By words, whether printed or spoken.
2. By sound, such as music or sound effects.
3. By movement, such as action in films, video, TV, or by gestures & body movement.
4. By the use of symbols such as symbols such as identity logos, badges & signs.
5. By the use of colors which have different effects or meanings.

PR For Utility CompaniesUtility Companies & its Public.

Generally following can be classified as utility companies;

- A. Electricity B. Gas C. Water

In fact all utilities have basically similar approach and problems.

- For utility the word Publics is generally synonymous to Customers.
- Generally, A utility with good public relations is with customer –oriented objectives, sound management & the ability not only to give customers good service but to communicate with them favorably in every way.

Objectives Of PR In A Utility Company.

- The utility company is well managed & efficiently run.
- The company is always striving to improve its services.
- Its rates are fair.
- It is an honest & ethical company, with no discriminatory practices in regard to customers & to any firm / s dealing with it.
- Company also takes good care of its employees.
- It will help in the improvement of environment.
- It will not indulge in profiteering.
- It will keep its employees informed about its business & better orientation.

How PR Helps Utility Companies

- Releases to newspapers & financial journals concerning earnings, refinancing operations, personnel changes & other business news.

- Attractive & informative quarterly reports to stockholders.
- Answering all stockholders queries as promptly as possible.
- Special releases on annual reports & meetings.
- An annual report advertisement.
- Detailed economic analysis & review once a year. Some times statistical booklets are issued separately & sometimes included with the annual report.

Advertising Essential For Utility Companies.

6 reasons.

1. Inform public on the best use of the service. This helps in increasing customer satisfaction.
2. To increase sales of its products.
3. To inform the public about company & its plans.
4. To improve the company image.
5. To encourage area development.
6. To attract investor's money and confidence.

We can always review and check company's activities. through regular check by following 6 questions.

- What is the company doing now?
- If some practice is discontinued, where was it done before?
- Who is doing it?
- How is it being done; what tools are used?
- What needs to be done?
- Who should do it?

PR IN VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS

Overview

Public Relations in its applications vary from one organization to another. In this lecture we will identify these different roles and purposes. We will also determine assignments and different techniques required therein besides the support provided by the public relation program.

Public Relations For Trade Associations

Predominantly, Public Relations is a significant function of most of these associations.

Purposes Of Trade Association P R Programmes.

- Promoting sales through product publicity.
- Creating consumer understanding of how to use the industry's products.
- Overcoming inequities or other problems in the competitive situation.
- Creating public understanding of the regulation of an industry by government.
- Combating government interference in or competition with an industry.
- Creating public support for legislative proposals that the industry favors or public opposition to legislation it opposes.
- Obtaining public recognition for the social & economic contributions that an industry makes to the nation.
- Recruiting qualified people for careers in an industry.
- Creating public understanding of the industry's labor policies & of its labor union relations.

Steps To Develop Trade Association PR Programmes.

1. Analysis of the public relations situation.
2. Definition of problem area.
3. Identification of concerned publics.
4. Establishment of specific objectives.
5. Planning of program.
6. Implementation of program.
7. Periodic appraisal of progress.

Techniques of Trade Association PR.

— Research

PR primarily adopts two universally accepted methods for conducting research

- a) Public opinion.
- b) Industry data.

- Publicity & personal contacts with media people.
- Institutional advertising.
- Motion pictures, slides & cd roms.
- Periodic publications.
- Pamphlets.
- Instructional leaflets.

To Sum up as per “Reuel Elton”

- Trade Association does not order, it advises.
- It does not coerce, it persuades.
- It does not issue mandates, or even instructions.

- It uses only the moving eloquence of a reasoned appeal to the self interest of its members.

Public Relations For Financial Institutions.

- Banking institutions.
- Leasing companies.
- Insurance companies.
- Stock exchanges.

Usual Assignments For PR

1. Measuring opinions towards the company of shareholders, financial analysts & legislators.
2. Recommending communication strategy, particularly for corporate goals.
3. Assisting with preparation of financial literature, such as letters to new shareholders, interim & annual reports, dividend enclosures etc.
4. Making arrangements & preparing informational materials for financial meetings, facility tours & presentations for the investor groups, analysts & financial media.
5. Writing financial news releases & handling of inquiries from financial media.

One of the important role of Financial PR is in the preparation of annual reports.

What Should Annual Reports Contain

- An attractive & distinctive cover.
- An inviting design that helps reader get the main message.
- A table of contents and / or highlights.
- Identification of members of the Board of directors.
- A statement or letter from the chairman or the CEO or both, summarizing the past year's events & emphasizing goals for the future.
- Consolidated balance statements of earnings, shareholder's interest, & operating cash flows for the year.
- Financial highlights & comparisons with at least the previous year, but often with the past 5~10 years.
- Auditor's statement of independence & adhering to accepted accounting principles.

Public Relations Typical Support.

It is essential to identify the type of technical support PR can provide which is enumerated below:

- Helping with physical arrangements.
- Creating handouts & other on site communications.
- Assisting with tours & souvenirs.
- Accommodating news media, including all necessary arrangements.
- Generating publicity support.
- Preparing Q&A sheets for top executives in anticipation of questions from shareholders.

Role Of Public Relations In Government

“A popular government without popular information or a means of acquiring it, is but a prologue to a farce or tragedy, or perhaps both.” James Madison

Government public relations rests on 2 fundamental premises:

1. A democratic government must report its activities to the citizens
2. That effective government administration requires active citizen participation & support.

Overall Goals For Government PR Plan.

- Informing constituents about the activities of the government agency;
- Ensuring active cooperation in government program e.g. voting, seat belt use, anti smoking ordinances etc.
- Fostering citizen support for established policies & programs e.g. foreign aid, welfare etc.

Public Relations For (NPO) - Non Profit Organizations.Aims Of PR In N.P.O's.

- To gain acceptance of an organization's mission.
- To develop channels of communication with those an organization serves.
- To create & maintain a favorable climate for fund raising.
- To inform & motivate key organizational constituents such as employees, voluntary workers, trustees to dedicate themselves & work productively in support of the organization's mission, goals & objectives.

Changing Functions Of PR In N.P.O's.

1. Paid advertising.
2. Communication selectivity & reach.
3. Marketing concepts & management by objectives have emerged as important part of communication strategy.

PR IN LABOUR UNIONS & RELIGIOUS GROUPS

Lesson 19E-PR & ITS TOOLS*Overview

The use and benefit of Internet and Email has been greatly identified as a useful tool for public relations practice. But how and when to use this is a question which needs to be pondered upon in the modern day practice of public relations. This and the use of laptops or note book will also be looked at and its advantages and disadvantages will also be compared in this lecture.

How To Develop E-PR

This is the age of electronic communication. It is therefore important to know the different aspects of developing PR in this sector.

Immediate Points To Consider.

1. Immediate Impressions.
2. Wise use of colors & illustrations in a purposeful way.
3. Quick download of information possible from the site.
4. Use small images, storing them as highly compressed file.
5. Your site should /could include:
 - a) An overall mission statement.
 - b) Details of products or services.
 - c) Secure means of ordering.
 - d) Compact, relevant & informative material easily readable.
 - e) Information about key personnel & company locations.
 - f) Good links to other /own, and / or relevant sites.
 - g) Publicity about awards, 'good works'.
 - h) Frequently asked questions. (FAQs)
 - I) membership or registration offers.
 - j) Competitions, quizzes or other entertaining items.
 - k) Some form of feedback.

Your site should not include:

1. Unnecessary flashy & fancy graphics.
2. Curious backgrounds that render text almost impossible to read.
3. A lead page that merely shows your logo or company name.
4. Unclear and useless links or other devices that viewer may not recognize.

Using Email As PR Tool:

1. Email is addressed to individuals, who each receive a personally addressed item with no copy marked elsewhere.
2. Email is sent to individuals on a list, so that all know who else has received it.
3. Email is posted on web so that anyone who wants to, can download it.
4. Email is available to be sent to auto responder to anyone who logs in.

E - Press Releases.

- A. Start with a bold heading – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE.

PRACTICE: THE PR PROCESS

Lesson 21HOUSE JOURNALS*Overview

In this lecture we will explain the importance of house journal, its history, types and its application and utility in the public relations practice. We will also explain different publics and furthermore cover the role of public relations in customer relations with its different aspects. We will also briefly touch the subject of exhibitions and seminars, its different kinds, aspects and different purposes.

House Journals

This is more or less a 150 year old PR Medium or a form of public relations. These have been given different names like, house organs, employees' newspapers, company newspapers or newsletters also. However, before we study the purpose and types we will study the employee response to such a publication.

- Do the employees welcome such journal.
- Do they regard it rather cynically as something imposed by management?
- Are employees invited to contribute to the contents? – Reader participation Very important.
- Are employees (Readers) critical letters permitted/printed?
- Does it look like it interests the employees or it only satisfies the vanity of the management?

Types Of House Journals.

- Sales Bulletin – Normally exchanged between a sales manager & sales staff which could even be weekly.
- Newsletter – A digest of news for busy employees like management, technicians and also acts as external communication.
- The magazine – This contains feature articles & pictures and its frequency can be monthly or quarterly.
- Tabloid newspaper – It resembles a popular newspaper.
- Wall newspaper – This is a very useful form of staff communication who are contained in one location like a factory, a store or a hospital. It will be something like a poster – something like used by Pakistan / British rail for its stations etc.

Possible Publics Of House Journals

The Trade.... Distributors which can be educated about a company and its products.

Users. Formulators, designers,& others who could be shown how to use products such as materials, components or ingredients.

Professionals.... To whom Products & services of interest can be described and explained.

PatronsThe in-flight magazine are a good example, or like the ones supplied to hotel guests.

Customers.... Journals issued or sent to customers, generally free of charge.

Opinion Leaders.... Those who matter need to be informed.

How PR Can Conduct Good Customer Relations.

Basically public relations depend on 2 major requirements for good customer relations.

- Quality products or services.
- Responsible acceptance of after market needs.

Secret Of Good Customer Relations.

- To determine what customer wants & would like.
- What problems of product or services need to be addressed?

- What doubts the product or services raise?
- Attractive and smart Packing has to be designed
- The after market policies have to be seriously devised and implemented.

The After Market (After Sales)

- Can your customers find spares and / or service agent easily?
- Do you train service engineers?
- Do you provide them with explanatory manual?
- Does your product carry an explicit, well illustrated service manual?
- Does the guarantee with your product has complicated & infuriating exclusion clauses?

Exhibitions & PR 4 Aspects.

- Participation in a public or trade exhibition.
- Public relations support for a participant.
- Exhibitor's promoter's public relations.
- Public relations exhibition.

Special Characteristics

Following characteristics need to be kept in mind.

- Attractiveness.
- Visibility.
- Personal Confrontation.

Exhibitions & PR

Public Relations Support to the participants.

Following is the main service of support public relations can provide in an exhibition to the participants.

- Contact the Exhibition officer to offer support.
- Identify & approach the Chief guest for visiting the stand during the tour.
- Ensure coverage in the media.
- Make available company's important officials in the press conference of the exhibition.
- Secure exclusive media coverage during exhibition.
- Advise, inform & advise export promotion department about your product.
- Producers of relevant Radio & TV programs are invited to provide information about future products.

Exhibition Promoter's Public Relations.

Following support public relations can provide to a promoter of an exhibition;

- Organize PR activities like press conference, issue of news releases to announce future exhibitions.

- Coordinate with exhibitors for any special activity.
- Produce an end of exhibition report on exhibitor's comments.

Various kinds Of PR Exhibitions.

- Portable Exhibitions – Modular, which could be taken apart and moved to site.
- Permanent Exhibitions – Usually at company premises but can be at trade centers as well.
- Mobile Exhibitions – Moving from place to place, floats etc.

Lesson 22CRISIS MANAGEMENT IN PR*Overview

A public relations professional or a counsel has to be prepared for the crisis as because of his devious nature of business he may have a magic wand to overcome them. In this lecture we will explain the meaning, type of crisis and how does the PR professional overcome them. We will also explain the do's and don'ts in a crisis and cover the role in dealing with opinion leaders besides suggesting the ways to conduct interviews and to deal with interviewers and reporters.

Crisis & Public RelationsMeaning of crisis

The best meaning which is appropriate from PR point of view is that crisis means “both danger & opportunity”. Or an appropriate response to a challenge depends upon an appropriate decision.

2 Things Necessary For Preparedness.

1. Better to have a crisis committee consisting of CEO, Personnel manager, works manager, now a days security officer & Public relations manager.
2. These people should have regular contact by meeting for an overview & regular appraisal of the situation.

Do's In A Crisis Situation.

Basically in a crisis situation like an individual a public relation professional or the management tends to panic. Therefore following are important things to do and not to do in order to face and resolve the crisis in an efficient manner. Firstly let us identify the Do's in such a situation.

- Gather all facts.
- Only credible spokespeople to speak or talk.
- Be accessible to the media.
- Report crisis yourself.
- Provide sufficient evidence of statements.
- Record events as the crisis evolve.
- Update crisis communications plan periodically.

Don'ts In A Crisis Situation.

Following are the Don'ts in a crisis which must be avoided at all costs to face them effectively.

- Avoid “no comment” as it leads to speculation.
- Don't debate the subject.
- Don't attempt to assess blame, rather address & solve the problem at hand.
- Don't over react & exaggerate the situation.
- Don't deviate from corporate policy or agreed upon crisis procedures.
- Don't make “off the record” statements, there is no such thing.

A typical PR Crisis Situation

In order to explain a crisis and how to overcome them following example of Survey report for Buner Poppy Substitution Project: (Pakistan) by PNCB is explained below:

FACTS:

- Buner in Lower Swat where almost 1/3rd of total opium poppy was being cultivated.
- The survey was to be conducted over an area of 600 square miles or 155,400 hectares.

- It was an area with poor communication & transport facilities.
- The people living in this area were hostile to the idea of abandoning poppy cultivation.
- The concerned staff was apprehensive for non cooperation of the residents.

Objectives of the Plan, To convince inhabitants that:

- This socio economic survey was in their interest.
- That the Government wanted to develop this neglected & under-developed area.
- The Government could launch development schemes only after collecting the necessary data through a survey.
- Furthermore the inhabitants were to be assured that the proposed development schemes would open up new avenues for jobs & bring the area (Buner) at par with rest of the country.

Plan Of Action Adopted

Once the objectives were determined and identified following plan of action was adopted:

- Specially written articles were inserted in newspapers.
- Radio & TV was used to run special programs in local dialects (Pushto & Gojri) mainly spoken in the region.
- Leaders of public opinion, including headmasters, notable religious figures apprised of the importance of the survey & motivated to lend their support.

Results. Of Action Plan

The above carefully devised plan of action resulted in following manner:

- Inhabitants became cooperative and were ready to help.
- They also not only provided all help but also extended hospitality.
- The earlier resistance faded and the survey went on smoothly.
- The inhabitants were convinced that survey was in their interest and for their benefit..

How To Deal With Opinion Leaders.

- Who are opinion leaders. (Whose opinions are listened to with respect.)
- What can they do?
- They can be dangerous & / or indispensable.
- They can help or hinder.
- They have to be identified.

How To Deal With Reporters & Interviewers.

Reporters and Interviewers are generally well prepared and critical people .It is therefore essential that they are tackled carefully and professionally.

Keys To Tackle Effectively.

Following the keys to tackle them effectively.

Interview at your place.

Here you are the Host

The big question is, why does the Journalist want an interview?

- Make sure you know your facts.
- Do your homework.
- Be articulate, as this shows confidence.

- Welcome journalists courteously. Thank them for coming.
- Do not fudge issues. Always have some answers ready.
- You are the host. They are your guests so look after them well.

Interviews In The Studio

Here you are the Guest

- How do you sound?
- Be more guarded, and don't be provoked.
- Speak slowly, confidently, in a warm attractive style.
- You should sound as if you are enjoying the broadcast and communicating with the audience.

Lesson 23ADVERTISING IN PR*Overview

In this lecture we will apprise the students with an important tool of public relations that is “Advertising”. We will cover brief history, definition, objectives, types and the future of advertising. We will also acquaint the students with publicity campaigns; and the guiding principles to public relations thinking

AdvertisingBrief History.

Advertising was used as popular form of spreading information throughout ages. Egyptians are considered as originators of advertising & it began to flourish there around 3200 B.C. Later on ancient Romans learnt this art from Egyptians. In England the first printed advertisement pertaining to sale of a book was published in 1477. Newspaper was the first major revolution in advertising while the second major revolution was the introduction of TV.

Definition Of Advertising.

“A form of communication which intends to promote the sales of goods, products or services , to influence public Opinion , to gain political support , to advance a particular Cause , or to elicit some other response desired by the advertiser.”

(British Institute of Advertising).

“Any paid form of non - personal presentation and promotional ideas, goods or services by an identified sponsor.”

(American Marketing Association).

Broad Objectives Of Advertising

1. To produce awareness and knowledge about the product or service.
2. To create liking and preference for it.
3. To stimulate thought and action about it.

Specific Objectives Of Advertising

- To build primary demand. This is done in case of launch of a new product

Lesson 25PUBLIC RELATIONS CONSULTANCY*Overview

In the modern days public relations services are also hired by way of consultants so as to keep the company image steady and strong. The students will be explained the definition of a public relations consultant besides evaluating the advantages and disadvantages of such an exercise., We will also study the ethics of public relations with special reference to the professional conduct and character of the public relations consultant. Moreover, the students will also be told about the market and its related dilemmas as well as the public relations role in educating the market.

Definition of A PR Consultant?

“ It is the provision of specified & creative services by an individual or a group of individuals qualified to do so by reason of experience and training by way of professional fees paid for its services by clients under an agreed contract.”

Advantages Of A PR Consultancy.

- It is an independent advisor, able & willing to criticize.
- It has wide experience gained with many clients requiring diversity of techniques.
- It is familiar with more media than the staff PR manager.
- It has more facilities & has access to specialist services with whom good working relations are enjoyed, like printers, photographers, research units, translators etc.
- It has skilled specialist staff.
- It may have central urban location close to media, venues for receptions & suppliers of services.

Disadvantages.

- It is remote from the internal organization of clients.
- Generally works through only one person in the client organization, or at best through only a few people & lacks internal line of communication.
- It is limited in operations to the size of fee unlike the staff PR manager who works full time.
- It has to share loyalties between clients.
- It may know little about the client’s trade, industry or special interest.

Ethics Of Public Relations

As is normally said:

“It pays to be honest”. A business is more likely to succeed if it is trusted. Similarly in PR credibility is vital, i.e. not only it is believable but it should also be true.

You must have also heard an old saying; “Honesty is the best policy”

PR Professional’s Conduct Towards Practice Of PR.

- Should have a positive duty to observe the highest standards in the practice of public relations & to deal fairly & honestly with employers & clients.
- Be aware of, understand & observe the above in letter & spirit.
- Conduct his or her professional activities with regard to the public interest.
- Has a positive duty at all times to respect the truth and not disseminate false or misleading information knowingly.

Ethics Of Public Relations

- Honor confidences received or given in the course of professional activity.
- Should not misuse information regarding his or her employer’s or client’s business for personal gain.
- Shall make every effort not to publish or otherwise disseminate false information.

- Will not conduct in a manner which is likely to be detrimental to the interest of the reputation of a public relation professional.
- Will never use inside information for personal gain.
- Will maintain complete secrecy if working for many clients during the course of their professional duties.

PR In Developing Countries

Problems of PR in developing countries.

1. Communication

“Difficult”

Because of lack of western style media

- Distances between cities & remote rural communities.
- Poor literacy.
- Numerous ethnic groups.
- Many regional languages & dialects.
- Religious & tribal taboos.

2. Marketing

Two Dilemmas

1. Half the population will be under 15 years of age
2. Many rural people may be subsistence farmers who sell little of their produce.

Therefore

At least if not more half will probably be outside the cash economy, thus having no buying power.

3. Publics

Only 10~20%

read newspapers, and own television sets

As A Result

People have attitudes and expectations similar to those in the West but even so 80% will not, & women in particular may generally suffer an inferior position.

4. Mass Communication

Because of low literacy rate and around 70% population living below poverty line newspapers only reach a specific segment of society. Moreover, different regional languages also result in limited readership. So there is, even these days, a big handicap in mass communication.

5. Advertising Dilemmas

Normally those who advertise even to the educated, literate, well to do minorities either have very little knowledge of the product or have no understanding of the public.

As A Result

Such advertising will be bad PR for the companies concerned

6. Educating The Market

PR situation in developing countries is totally different to the West. EDUCATION an essential characteristic of PR is the primary aspect of development.

As A Result

PR job is to educate the market.

Media In Developing Countries

Differences from Western Media

- Unlikely to be the mass media in same sense that most people read newspapers & watch television, though radio may be widespread.
- The media may have to go to people living in distant locations with inadequate traveling facilities.
- Media regarded as popular or mass in the west may be regarded as elitist or minority media.
- Most media will be divided into editions which serve different language groups. This will make circulations smaller.
- Traditional or folk media may have more appeal.

Public Relations ConsultancyDefinition of a PR consultant?

“ It is the provision of specified & creative services by an individual or a group of individuals qualified to do so by reason of experience and training by way of professional fees paid for its services by clients under an agreed contract.”

- It is limited in operations to the size of fee unlike the staff PR manager who works full time.
- It has to share loyalties between clients.
- It may know little about the client’s trade, industry or special interest.

How Can Political PR Help

Somehow or the other businesses are bound to be affected by Politics...

Has to be identified!

.... How, when & why political action?

Is it going to help or harm you!

- Do you include Political PR as part of your in-house PR Program?
- Do you identify the MPs and Councilors who take a special interest in your subjects (and not just your trade or industry) & how to plan to lobby them?
- Which ministries or local government departments should you approach through civil servants?

Lesson 26PUBLIC RELATION'S ROLE IN MARKET EDUCATION*Overview

As public relations play a vital role in proving support in marketing; it is imperative that students should be apprised with its role in market education. Simultaneously we will also study the importance of public relations in providing support and help in the exports keeping in mind the global perspectives. We will also study the latest trends in public relations and will discuss the restructuring of the role of public relations in modern days.

How To Educate Market2 Kinds of Market Education

- To prepare the market in Advance.
- For Products & Services already on the market.

2 Kinds Of Markets

- People who sell your product. -- SELLERS
- People who buy your product.-- BUYERS

Effects Of Market Education Strategy

- It helps to minimize sales resistance.
- Makes easier for sales force to achieve 'adequate distribution' prior to advertising.
- It helps to reduce the cost of advertising.
- It makes advertising more effective because market is always well aware of the product or service.

How To Educate Market Techniques To Be Applied

- A media relations campaign ranging over press, radio and TV as appropriate.
- Testing of prototypes by potential users.. This often means providing material for media relations.
- Special slides, videos, CD's, for presentations to dealers, customers & the media.
- Work visits for dealers.
- Special campaigns aimed at particular opinion leaders.
- Production of printed material needed to support these activities.

How To Educate Market Test marketing Program Tactics.

- Training sales staff.
- Providing sales people with counter-top demonstration units e.g. slide video.
- Works visits.
- Dealer conferences with presentations of product & advertising.
- Distribution of dealer magazines. (If available)
- Trade press receptions.
- Picture stories of the pack, stills from TV commercials & details of media schedules.

How Can PR Help ExportsThere is an old English proverb

"One half of the world does not know how the other half lives."

Important Points To Consider

- Determine & Identify any adverse or resistant behavior.
- Identify markets where sales are possible.
- Determine priority markets.
- Analyze opportunities for using PR.
- Define Methods.

Typical Questions To Determine Methods

What should be done?

- Support an existing agency subsidiary or licensee.
- Back up traveling overseas sales force.
- Prepare grounds for entry into new foreign market.
- Determine that not only market demand can be satisfied but that you are welcome.
- Keep on repeating the PR criteria of media relations that your material must be of interest and value to the target public.

Usual Acceptable Methods

- Publishing Promotional literature.
- External house journals.
- Sales tours.
- Use of Videos or CD ROMs.
- On the spot service.
- Trade fairs & Exhibitions.

Public Relations TrendsNeed To Re - Evaluate

What it is and where it is going?

- To find a balance between a) Communications products manufacturing b) strategic counseling & training of all members of organizations for their responsibility --- since relationship-building is everyone's job.
- PR has to broaden its view of the world we live in & of the institutions that employ us.
- To provide strategic advice to understand the business we are in – not only the public relations part , but the business itself.

New Names For PR

- British practitioners now call PR as “REPUTATION MANAGEMENT”.
- Burston Marsteller largest PR firm “PERCEPTION MANAGEMENT”
- Some even call it “BRAND MANAGEMENT” and add “INTEGRATED COMMUNICATION” as the new name.

Restructuring PR Roles.

Corporate downsizing & subsequent outsourcing is considered to be the order of the day. According to John Budd PR needs to be “Re - invented rather than re- engineered.”

PR now has to emphasize on 2 major functions.

- Editorial ... like PR communication, will attend to high priority, high profile & high leverage needs of the organization.
- Public policy and programming ...similar to PR management role. It is the heart, soul & nerve centre of the operation.”

Organizational Changes

The important point is that should these organizational changes be in “management & editorial” as per John Budd or in “Strategy & execution” as opined by Harold Burson.

However,

2 ways of organizing PR functions have emerged.

- In house corporate model, if the company is national or international in its scope. (A mix of strategist & tactics)
- A small core of specialists with outside contracting for regional or smaller companies. (primarily strategist with tactics services bought)

Lesson 27MODERN DAY VALUES OF PR*Overview

As has been reiterated on many occasions role of public relations has completely changed from indirect to direct and very active on global basis, so it is essential that modern day values of public relations should be identified for better understanding. It is in this perspective that the ethics of public relations have also to be redefined and studied again.. The students will also be informed about the six public relations management golden principles.

Modern Day Values Of PR

- Public relations represent & articulate the desire & interests of various publics to society's sometimes unresponsive institutions. While interpreting & speaking for publics, it also speaks to them for the institutions.
- Public relations help establish smoother relationships between institutions & society by encouraging mutual adjustments to benefit society.
- Public relations offers for the communication system to help in keeping people informed about various aspects of their lives.
- Public relations personnel can frequently help stimulate an institution's social conscience.
- Public relations functions in all aspects of life, since its principles reflect the basic human impulses of seeking acceptance, cooperation and/or affection from others. PR practice just formalizes that activity.
- Public relations can help management formulate better objectives, advocate them and reach them.

There are basically Three ways to get people to do what they want

1. Power.
2. Patronage
3. Persuasion.

Public Response To Persuasive Information.

Phase I.	Awareness	Also called presentation
Phase II.	Information	Also called attending.
Phase III.	Evaluation.	Also called comprehending
Phase IV.	Trial	Also called yielding
Phase V.	Adoption	Also called retaining
Phase VI.	Reinforcement	Another aspect of retaining

Ethics Of Public Relations

Although the importance of ethics has been discussed earlier too yet in order to emphasize and stress upon its paramount importance it is being reproduced here again specially in the context of obtaining positive public response.

As is normally said:

“It pays to be honest”. A business is more likely to succeed if it is trusted. Similarly in Public Relations credibility is vital , i.e. not only it is believable but it should also be true. You must have also heard an old saying; “Honesty is the best policy.” Lee Jaffe,^{1st} female PR Gold Anvil winner said “Never, never, do anything or say anything that you are unwilling to see in print.”

Why Honesty Is Important

- Dishonesty leads to lack of trust and cynicism.
- Lying is an exercise in coercion, forcing someone to act differently from the way he or she would have behaved if given the truth.
- Lying is resented by those deceived, even if the deceived ones are liars themselves.
- Dishonesty is likely to be discovered & no climate for credibility can be reestablished.
- Decisions about when to lie are often made without calculating either alternatives or consequences.
- A lie often demands another lie to cover it up, and then others to maintain them.

Remember

Ethics are founded on moral principles.

Judgments about an organization's standing are based on 3 areas:

1. Ethics
2. Social Responsibility
3. Financial Responsibility

Ethics Of Public Relations

- Decisions about what is right or wrong some hold to be absolute: to others situation is the factor.
- The fact that the PR works to change people's views causes the individual practitioner ethics to be closely connected to the organizational responsibility.
- Political PR people often find themselves caught in the middle of conflicts resulting from use of news media by public officials & vice versa.
- Ultimately the ethical, responsible practice of public relations is a personal choice.

PR Professional's Conduct Towards Practice Of PR.

- He should have a positive duty to observe the highest standards in the practice of public relations & to deal fairly & honestly with employers & clients.
- He should be aware of understand & observe the above in letter & spirit.
- Conduct his or her professional activities with regard to the public interest.
- He has a positive duty at all times to respect the truth and not disseminate false or misleading information knowingly.
- He should honor confidences received or given in the course of professional activity.
- He should not misuse information regarding his or her employer's or client's business for personal gain.
- He shall make every effort not to publish or otherwise disseminate false information.
- He will not conduct in a manner which is likely to be detrimental to the interest of the reputation of a public relation professional.
- He will never use inside information for personal gain.
- He will maintain complete secrecy if working for many clients during the course of their professional duties.

To Sum Up --- 6 PR Management Golden Principles.

1. Tell the truth. Let public know what is happening and provide an accurate picture of company's character & practices.
 2. Prove it with action. Public perception is determined 90% by doing & 10 % by talking.
 3. Listen to the customer. Determine their needs and wants.
 4. Manage for tomorrow. Anticipate public reaction & eliminate practices that create difficulties. Create Goodwill.
 5. Conduct public relations as if the whole company depended on it. It does. Corporate relation is a management function. The PR practitioner is a policy maker not just the publicist.
- Remain calm, patient and good humored. Lay the groundwork for public relations miracles with consistent, calm & reasoned attention to information and contacts, because when & if crisis come you will be prepared & know exactly what to do to defuse it

Lesson 28CHOICE OF MEDIA FOR PR CAMPAIGN*Overview

As has often been explained the choice of media in a public relations campaign is very important. However, in order to make this choice it is essential that the public relations professional should be aware of the advantages and disadvantages of different media. This will enable him to select the appropriate media for better and positive results.

Communication Channels & Media--- Television

Now a days Television has become a very important media with the advent of round the clock coverage and “presence always” on every occasion.

Lesson 30DESIGNING PR CAMPAIGNS*Overview

In the last lecture the students were briefly told about public relations being in action .We will now study about its role in campaigns and its role in effectively combating rumors and then how to overcome and recover from problems occurring out of rumors.

Campaigns3 Objectives.

- To address an issue.
- To solve a problem.
- To improve a situation.

Purpose Is To Accomplish These By :

- Changing a behavior.
- Modifying a law or opinion.
- Retaining a desirable behavior, law or opinion.

6 Types Of Campaigns.

1. Simple awareness.
2. Offer information along with awareness.
3. Public education campaign.
4. Re enforce the attitudes & behaviors of those who agree.
5. Change or attempt to change attitudes, behaviors of those who do not agree.
6. Carry out behavior modification campaigns.

Characteristics Of Successful Campaigns.

1. Assessment of needs, goals & capabilities of priority publics.
2. Systematic campaign planning & production.
3. Continuous monitoring & evaluation.
4. Consideration of complementary role of media.
5. Selection of appropriate media

Campaign Model:

1. Definitive Mission statement. (Values)
 - the distilled essence of organization’s reason for being.
 - Implies its positioning, goals, policies.

This is carried out by

2. Corporate culture. (Shared values)
 - Demonstrated by role model.
 - re enforced by rituals, stories.
 - the source of teamwork, morale, productivity
3. Positive Public Relationships (Expressed values).
 - more than marketing or communication
 - the source of loyalty, credibility, trust.

Over a period this creates...

4. Reputation. (Understood values)
 - Generates latent readiness to like, accept, trust, and believe.
 - a self powering force that lies at the core of all human interface.
 - honor & integrity of its maker.

How PR Helps To Deal With Rumors

•Analyze the scope & seriousness of the nature & impact of the rumor before planning & engaging in any active correction.

- Analyze the specific causes, motives, sources and dissemination of the rumors.
- Confer with persons affected by or being damaged by rumors. Level with them & assure them of your concern & collect authentic information regarding the matter.
- Immediately (& massively, if it appears advisable) supply complete & authentic information regarding the matter.
- Feed the rumors yourself with counter rumors placed by trusted colleagues & confidants.
- Call key status & informal leaders, opinion molders and other influential people together to discuss & clarify the situation & to solicit their support & assistance.
- Avoid referring to the rumor in disseminating truth. You should not try to reinforce rumors itself, unless it already is in wide circulation.
- Conduct meetings with the staff & others at the grass root level to dispel rumors, if necessary.

How To Recover & Evaluate

- Determine the causes of crisis (rumors).
- It is imperative to undercut rumors & speculations that may have been rampant.
- Decide which strategies & policies can be developed that will prevent similar or related crisis.
- Ask whether the crisis plan itself worked and whether changes should be made in it. i.e.(fine tuning)
- Evaluate the performance of all personnel in the crisis situation.

Lesson 31

PUBLIC OPINION

Overview

So far we have studied various aspects of Public Relations with special reference to its different publics and their identification. In this lecture the students will be explained more about the Publics and Public opinion and how to identify and determine priority publics. The important ways of handling public and public opinion will also be explained. Moreover, the students will also be acquainted with the laws of public opinion.

PR Publics & Public Opinion Identifying & Describing Publics

There are various types of publics and types of public opinion.

PR publics & Public Opinion

- Modern Day Publics
- Media Publics
- Employee Publics
- Member Publics
- Community Publics
- Government Publics
- Investor Publics
- Consumer Publics
- International Publics
- Special Publics

Identifying Priority Publics

It is important to note and know the method of identifying priority publics. The following index named as public vulnerability importance is an easy and comprehensible appropriate method to do this.

Through Public Vulnerability Importance. (PVI) Index.

FORMAT

P	+	V	=	I
Scale (1~10)		Scale (1~10)
Potential for Organizations to influence		Vulnerability of organizations for being affected		Importance of publics to organizations

Audience or Public

3 Ways To Describe Priority Publics

1. Nominatively-- just by giving public a name , such as “stockholders”.
2. Demographically--- by a look at public’s statistical characteristics such as age, gender, income, education.
3. Psycho graphically --- by examining the public’s defining emotional and behavioral characteristics.

6 Segments of Public. As per Global Values.

- Altruists slightly older, more women than men.
Strivers more male , medium age.
Fun seekers more men than women , younger.
Creative even split between men & women.

Devout older, more women than men, anchored in religion, faith, tradition.

Intimates slightly more women than men, younger, focused on personal relationship.

Tackling Issues In Relation To Public Opinion.

1. Sensing the problem. (Research)
2. Defining the problem. (through judgement & priority setting)
3. Deriving solutions. (through policy & strategy selection)
4. Implementing them.
5. Evaluating outcomes.

Tips On Influencing Publics. (S Plous Univ.of Illinois)

If Goal Is Attitude Change

- Do not use graphic images unless accompanied by specific actions people can execute.
- Go to public instead of asking them to come to you.
- Do not assume that attitude change is essential for behavioral change

If Goal Is Behavioural Change

- Use moral arguments as adjuncts rather than main arguments.
- Do not offend the people you seek to change.

EXISTING POSI

“Laws” Of Public Opinion – (Hadley Cantril)

- Opinion is highly sensitive to important events.
- Opinion is generally determined more by events than by words – unless those words are themselves interpreted as events.
- Verbal statements have maximum importance when opinion is unstructured, & people seek interpretation from a reliable source.
- By & large public opinion does not anticipate emergencies – it only reacts to them.
- Opinion is basically determined by self – interest.
- Once self interest is involved, opinion is not easily changed.
- Public opinion, like individual is colored by desire.
- Opinion does not remain aroused for any long period of time unless opinion is aroused by words -- is sustained by events.
- Events of unusual magnitude are likely to swing public opinion temporarily from one extreme to another. Opinion does not become stabilized until the implications of events are seen with some perspective.
- The important psychological dimensions of opinion are direction, intensity, breadth and depth.

Lesson 32PUBLIC RELATIONS AND RESEARCH*Overview

Public relations strategy can be more effective and successful if it is backed up by research for collecting and remaining abreast with happenings and events pertaining to either the relevant subject or generalized facts required and usable in appropriate situations. This is what we will cover in this lecture besides identifying methods to conduct research and various desired objectives, advantages and procedures to evaluate the benefits and results of such research.

PR & Research

What is research is an important question required to be answered. Two eminent management and public relations experts defined and explained research as under:

“Research is the one important source of Ideas for public relations practice.”

--- Edward J. Robinson

Management Training & development Authority.

“We can’t manage what we don’t measure.”

David R. Drobis

Chairman, CEO, Ketchum Public Relations Worldwide.

“No Public Relations strategy can succeed without background and knowledge of a Situation.”

--- M. Tariq Bucha

President Pakistan Public Relations Society.

2 Methods.

Following are two main universally accepted methods of conducting research.

- Primary

Collecting raw data that has not been compiled before.

- Secondary

Reading or consulting available material that someone else has compiled before.

What Questions Need Answers.

While conducting research there are certain important questions which need to be addressed and answered.

- Who are our publics?
- What is our action / message?
- What channels of communication reach our publics?
- What should we do to keep in touch?
- How will this activity be understood by our publics?
- What will our publics say or do as a result of our efforts?
- What is their feeling about us?

What Does Research Do?

One important question is regarding the objects achieved by research. Following are few important support factors resulting from research.

- It supports audience.
- It supports media & trend analysis.
- It does message testing
- It does issue monitoring, forecasting & evaluating.

- It often provides essential data for effectively presenting information.

Research Sources.

Following are two important and significant sources of research.

- Scholarly

Academic institutions and faculty do scholarly research, sometimes with funding from the government, foundations or from professional associations.

- Commercial

This is done by research firms, advertising and Public relations firms / agencies & other marketing related companies.

How To Use Research?

It is imperative and pertinent to determine what the possible ways to use research with advantage are.

Basically 6 ways.

- To formulate strategy.
- To gauge success.
- To test messages.
- To size up competition.
- To get publicity.
- To sway opinion.

Planning Phase Of Research

In order to get positive results from research it is essential to plan it properly as below:

- Issue forecasting.
- Learning about publics.
- Prioritize publics by Issues.
- Interpreting behavior of publics.
- Planning media use.
- Considering Possible Outcomes.

Using Research For Final Evaluation.

For final evaluation research can provide major help and support.

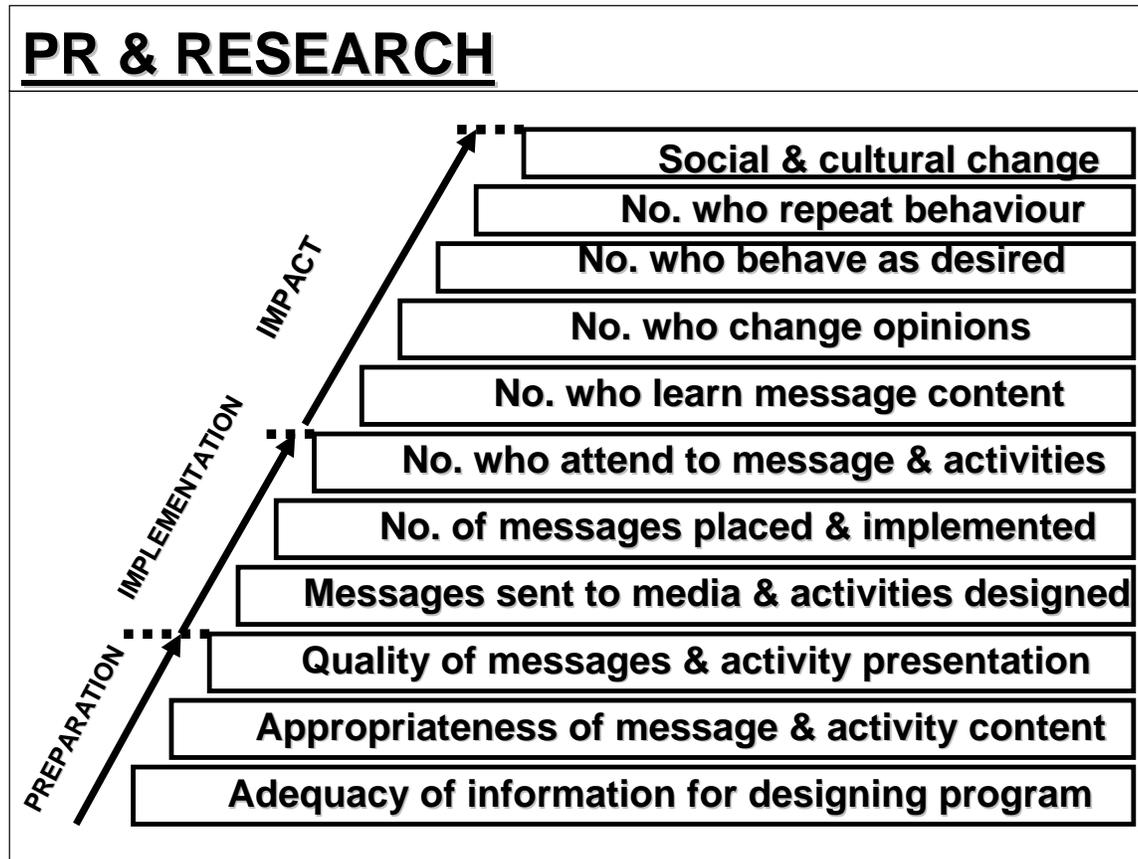

- Complete the goal results, & interpret their significance to the specific objectives set, to the organization's overall objectives & mission.
- Evaluate the impact of actions taken on your publics to see what their attitudes are now.
- Determine how the organization's overall objective and mission have been affected.

Measure The Program's Impact In 3 Areas:

- Financial Responsibility -- going beyond market share to public's perception of how an organization gets & spends its money.
- Ethics --- the perception by publics of an organization's standards of behavior, a moral judgment of the consequences of what it says and does.
- Social Responsibility - public's perception of whether an organization is a good citizen, e.g. whether it contributes to social, political & economic health of global society.

Lesson 33PR AND RESEARCH*Overview

As explained in the previous lecture research has a very important place in drafting or compiling a Public relations plan. It is only through research that PR professionals will be able to conceive and devise a practical and result oriented strategy or a plan. In this lecture deeper study into role of research in public relations plan and strategy will be studied and explained.

Basically 2 Classifications

Basically there are two main and practical accepted methods of research.

1. Formal
2 types -- qualitative & quantitative, can be conducted in a laboratory or in the field.
2. Informal
This is conducted without generally agreed upon rules & procedures and results of which can be used for description & not for prediction.

Formal

- State the problem.
- Select a manageable (& measurable) portion of the problem.
- Establish definitions to be used in the measurement.
- Conduct a search in published literature for studies similar in subject or research approach.

- Develop a hypothesis.
- Design experiments.
- Obtain the data.
- Analyze the data.
- Interpret the data to make inferences and generalizations.
- Communicate the results.

Informal

- Unobtrusive Measures.

These are used to gather information, permits researchers to study someone or something without interfering with or interrupting what is going on.

- Journalistic Research.

Journalists are also trained to gather Information from the primary (mainly interviews) & secondary sources (public records, media files, libraries.)

- Opinion & Communication Audits.

Audits could be:

Social, Economic or Political.

- Generally, researchers concentrate on observational data.
- Communication pundits attempt to evaluate various publics responses to an organization's communication efforts.
- Publicity Analysis.
Clippings from print media and transcripts from broadcast publicity can also be used to determine the quantity & quality of coverage.

Questionnaires For Survey

How To Prepare A Questionnaire?

- Are the words understandable?
- Do they contain abbreviations, jargons or unconventional phrases?
- Are questions technically correct?
- Are they too vague?
- Are they biased?
- Are questions offensive?
- Do they require too much effort to answer?

Lesson 34PROBLEMS SOLVING STRATEGIES*Overview

As a public relations professional you must be able to comprehend as to what different phases can do to solve various problems encountered by them. Moreover, students will also be apprised about the working of management of public relations.

How Does The Management Of PR Work?

Basically there are two major and important ways to do this.

- PR department's role as part of the management team to develop problem solving strategies for entire organization.
- Relates to PR department's own efforts to integrate & coordinate its work with that of the organization.

PROBLEMS SOLVING STRATEGIESBASIC FORMULA*OLDER FORMULA*Problems Solving Strategies

In order to evolve problem solving strategies we have to determine a procedure to handle them but the main question is Where do you start?

- Assemble readily available facts.
- Determine which publics are affected or involved.
- Decide if additional research is needed to define problems & evaluate its scope.

Where do you go from here?

- Formulate a hypothesis, assemble facts to test the hypothesis & revise if hypothesis is disproved.
- Elements to consider in this planning:

- a) What is objective of PR effort – What specifically do you want to accomplish? (be able to state this in concrete terms).
- b) What image of company you want to project?
- c) What publics are targets & why?

Who Are Other Audiences Whose Opinions Matter?

- What message do you have for each public?
- What media can you use to carry these messages?
- What response do you want from each audience?
- What budget can you use for this – regular allocated budget or a special fund?
- What is the best timing for action?
- Review problems or obstacles that might arise & make contingency plans for these.
- Build in monitoring devices to know; how are you doing?

Once It Is All Over—

It is important to find out how to know what happened!

- Plan for evaluation.
- Evaluate all aspects :
 1. Impact : Informational, attitudinal & behavioral.
 2. Output : Media efforts & results.
- Communicate results.

In Brief!

- Find the central core of difficulty.
- Check your total list of publics involved in the problem.
- Determine the problem's status in terms of potential harm to the organization.
- List the related difficulties to be considered.
- Explore the alternatives.
- List the desired objectives.
- See how the solution fits into the long range plans which are shaped to what you see as the Mission.
- What are the immediate plans & how do these fit with long range plans?
- Short term solutions that do not fit with long range objectives & are not consonant with “mission statement” are wrong. Don't do them - Start over

Procedure For Handling Problem Internally.

- Detail the plan & submit to the policy executive for approval.
- Get approval in writing.
- Keep all people directly involved informed on continuing basis throughout the move toward solving the public relations problem.

Intervening Situations. Some Barriers.

But all said and done despite all best intentions and efforts there can still be certain situations like the ones mentioned below which could prove a hindrance

- Information you don't know.
- Effects of the way you look at the problem.
- Limitations faced by you. (restrictions on the choices the situation offers)
- Your personal limitations. (or management's)
- Problems associated with upsetting the equilibrium of organization or of others.

Lesson 35

PERSUASION & COMMUNICATION THEORIES

Overview

Basically while improving upon the definition of public relations the word mutual understanding between the organization and its publics was rethought and defined to be persuasion for better understanding and the philosophy pertaining to the persuasion and communication theories in the modern perspective.

Main Definitions Of Public Relations

- “It is a planned & sustained effort to establish & maintain mutual understanding between an organization & its publics.”

- “It is a phenomenon & necessity of our times.”

--- Edward Bernays

- Word Persuasion would be better than mutual understanding.

Quentin Bell

Public Opinion is the collective opinion of groups of people.

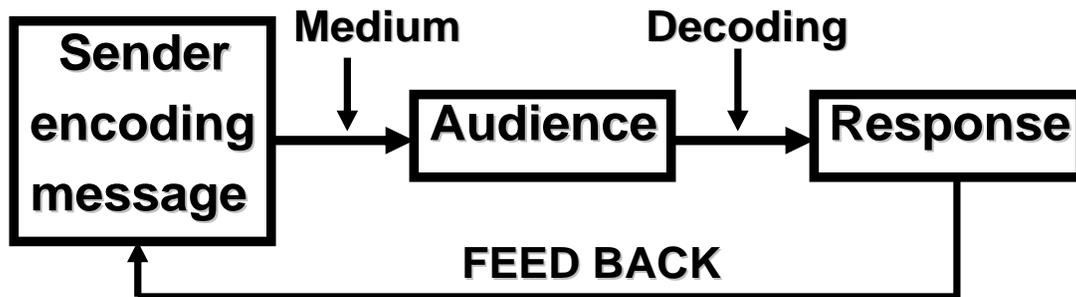

2 things sure about public opinion:

- It will change
- Those who hold an opinion were somehow persuaded to think as they do.

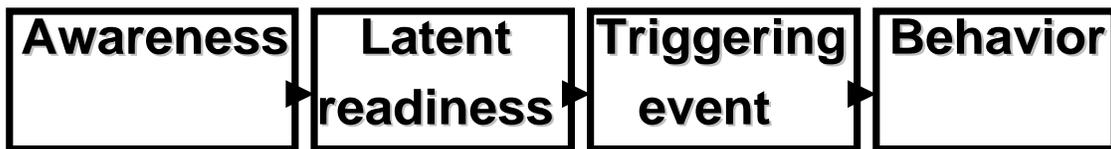

PERSUASION & COMMUNICATION THEORIES

② Theoretical Model of PR Practice

Communication Model

Behavioral Model

Persuasive Strategies Based On 3 Elements

Media Orientation
Whom to tell – How to tell

What Media to communicate

(Choice of medium is very critical. It must be believable e.g. Television
Which is highly credible with mass penetration?)

Message Orientation

1. Actually message must be evaluated.
2. To be effective persuasive appeals must combine the rational & the emotional.
3. To be persuasive, a message has to present something of value to the target public.
4. Must be compatible with that public's motives.

● Source Orientation.

1. Source of information has big effect on persuasion.
2. People tend to believe sources that are like them, like they want to be, or like they perceive themselves to be.
3. Research has suggested that source credentials may not matter as much as a message's plausibility & message quality.

Propaganda & Persuasion Appeals

Some misleading propaganda devices.

1. Name Calling.
Positive or negative.
2. Glittering Generalities.
Throngs of greeters. Enthusiastic crowds
3. Transfer.
Famous person's aura is transferred to less known persons.
4. Testimonial.
Actual endorsement - not transfer.
5. Card stacking.
Telling one side of story.
6. Emotional stereotypes.
All kinds of images are so designed like "good Pakistani", "housewife", "foreigner" etc.
7. Illicit Silence.
Basically holding information that would correct a false impression.

Persuasion & Communication Theories

There are 5 important elements

--- Robert Cialdini.

1. Consistency
2. Reciprocity
3. Social validation
4. Authority
5. Scarcity

Based on the above 5 elements there are 4 principles of persuasion to be kept in mind--

Earl Newman

(Built on concept of personal identification with an idea or a problem).

1. Identification.
2. Suggestion of action.
3. Familiarity & Trust.
4. Clarity.

Lesson 36COMMUNICATION CONCEPTS & THEORIES*Overview

In order to communicate more effectively and positively it is essential that the students should understand the communication concepts and theories guiding them. In this context consumer behavior is very critical and needs careful monitoring. In this lecture we will explain the principles and necessary actions to implement them and monitor them, we will once again explain the importance of research in these theories and concepts.

8 Principles Apply To Consumer Behavior

1. Unpleasant appeals can be learned as readily as pleasant ones.
2. Appeals made over a period of time are more effective.
3. Unique messages are better remembered.
4. It is easier to recognize an appeal than to recall it.
5. Knowledge of results increases learning of a message
6. Repetition is more effective when related to satisfaction.
7. Messages are easier to learn when they do not interfere with earlier habits.
8. Learning a new pattern of behavior can interfere with remembering something else.

Research and PersuasionResearch Critical —

It should be understood that research is always very critical in all areas of public relations.

Firstly —

How to collect data.. Whether yourself-In-house – OR – buy research services.

According to Earl Babbie—

FIVE practices which should be safeguarded in a research study.

- Ensuring voluntary participation of all subjects, including employees when the research is of internal publics.
- Preventing harm to the subjects, either psychologically or through analysis & reporting.
- Protecting participants through anonymity &/or confidentiality, the latter occurring when researcher identifies participant but does not reveal information.
- Avoiding deceiving participants something not always possible but highly desirable.
- Reporting & analyzing results fairly & accurately so others are not misled by the findings.

Secondly

Research involves actual accumulation & storage of information.

Thirdly

As to how research information is used.

How Are PR Practitioners Hampered In Their Efforts To Influence Management?

- Lack of access to management.
- Restraints on information collection.
- Roadblocks to dissemination of timely accurate information.
- A narrow definition of the role of public relations.

Public Relations Responsibility“Corruption Of Judgment”

Dispute is not over facts.

- It is in the interpretation of facts.
- And it is over conflicting value systems.

In Fact The Best Course Is

Return to the following formula for socially responsible PR decision making

- Who are the Publics?
- What are the interests of each in the decision or situation?
- How will an institution's policy or action affect each of these publics?
- What social values are involved?
- What values are in conflict?
- What will the effects be?
- Can the effects be defended?

SO consequently

If the PR person who loses public's perspective in fact foregoes public responsibility & has become the "persuaded" rather than the "persuader".

Lesson 37PUBLIC RELATIONS & LAW*Overview

With the increased awareness of one's rights and the democratic principles and practices in place it is important to know the legal implications in the use of public relations plans and strategies. The students will also be acquainted with important methods to stay out of trouble. We will also explain various repercussions and implications of libel, slander and defamation. We will also discuss regarding public relations role in legal matters.

As Samuel Johnson opined

“The law is the last result of human wisdom acting upon human experience for the benefit of public.”

Francis Maitland Balfour said

“Law: a mousetrap easy to enter, but not easy to get out of.”

Liabilities Of Practicing PR

1. Normal legal exposure, like encountered by any other person.
2. Work oriented legal exposure such as found in the course of normal PR or publicity activities.
3. Extraneous legal exposure including everything from testifying as an expert witness to getting sports event tickets for a client, to lobbying without registering as a lobbyist or reporting income and expenses from such activities.

Legal Problems: Civil & Criminal According to Morton Simons

5 situations where PR practitioner may be subjected to legal implications.

1. Participates in the illegal action.
2. Counsels, guides & directs the policy behind it.
3. Takes a large personal part in it.
4. Sets up a propaganda agency to fight enemies of it.
5. Cooperates to further it.

How To Stay Out Of Trouble

Best way to stay out of trouble is to maintain good relationship with the attorney of the organization...!

5 ways can be helpful

1. Recognize your individual responsibility for your action.
2. Know your business.
3. Ignore the vague lines between advertising & PR, because the law often does.
4. Decide how far you are willing to go to run a risk of jail, fine, a cease or desist order or a corrective order.
5. “Know your enemy” specially which Government agency is likely to go after you.

5 Good Points For PR Persons

1. Be careful about headlines & pictures.
2. Carefully select every word, even the smallest one.
3. Use numbers where essential or important.
4. Be aware about the ingredients behind the product.
5. Only repeat a slogan where necessary.

Defamation: Libel & Slander2 Kinds of Libel: Civil & Criminal

Libel: “written or otherwise published defamation”

Slander: “spoken defamation”.

Civil Libel: this is non criminal – such as malicious publication tending to tarnish the reputation of a living person... Injuring his repute.

Criminal Libel: breach of peace or treason --- involves inciting to riot or some other form of violence against the government.

Defence Against Libel Basically Three (3)

1. Truth: substantial proof that is admissible in court.
2. Privilege: a fair and true report of a public, official or judicial proceeding.
3. Fair Comment: statements made in an honest belief that they are true.

Rights Of Privacy

Rights of privacy apply only to people, and not to organizations..

4 types of violations

1. Intrusion into solitude.
2. Portraying someone in a false light.
3. Public disclosure of private information.
4. Appropriation. Using a person's name or likeness for commercial purposes without person's consent. In fact it is the privacy violation that causes most PR problems.

Contracts & Consents

Normally PR practitioner should not get involved in contracts etc.

Should know about at least 5 such forms:

1. Model Release. When models are required for some campaign etc.
2. Employee Contract. Basically job related contracts.
3. Photo Agreement. Rights to release and use pictures for particular events.
4. Work For Hire. To hire personnel for some project etc.
5. Printing Contract. Contracts for getting some printing jobs to be carried out by printer etc.

Lesson 38PUBLIC RELATIONS & CASE STUDIES*Overview

Like research case studies provide a very vital resource of data to think and plan various strategies which would have proved useful or even would not have worked. We will explain the methods of how to use these and also show how these help in overcoming crises or difficult situations. This lecture will also help the students in knowing about important rules to follow in learning from experience obtained from the case studies. Moreover, we will also apprise the students regarding the various images of public relations as defined and understood by modern public relations practitioners.

Plautus,a Roman Poet & Playwright said —

“That a man is wise to some purpose who Gains his wisdom at the expense and from the experience of another.”

Francis Bacon,an Author, Statesman & a Philosopher said --

“Learning teaches how to carry things in suspense, without prejudice, till you resolve.”

How To Use Case Studies

- Find a solution to a PR Problem using specific guidelines as suggested by an existing case.
- PR practitioners may dissect a historical case as a learning experience to determine what worked and what did not and why.

How Can Case Studies HelpA. Case Analysis

Analysis of historical case can be broken into 4 parts.

1. Summary of the case.

An explanation of the nature of problem or problems background -- & the research based purposes of PR actions taken to address the situation.

2. Additional research into publics.

An assessment of impact of the problem, situation or proposed action; a prioritization of the publics & an explanation of what was done to overcome that.

3. Description of institution involved

What it does, what it is? Copies of progress reports be examined & included in the analysis. The action taken & all communication efforts made should be explained in detail.

4. Consideration & evaluation.

What worked particularly well & what could have been improved.

Learning From Experience.9 Cardinal Rules

1. Get started early & use material from executive speech, because it already has been researched & cleared for release.
2. Use arguments people can relate to ones that affect them.
3. Show what impact winning on your issue will have on the major concerns of the day.
4. Do not put all your arguments into one release.
5. Present only your case, not the opposition's.
6. Use positive approach to refer to the other side, like “less informed” or “well intentioned.”
7. Keep in touch with the lobbyist to get feedback on which arguments are working the best.
8. Don't just cover news media. Send to all channels.

9. Keep in mind the key objective is to win, not to merely accumulate more clippings, editorials and photo layouts. WINNING IS THE BOTTOM LINE.

To Sum Up.... Case Studies

Demonstrate how campaigns to achieve specific public relations objectives are planned, implemented & evaluated.

May be used in 2 ways

1. Case studies may pose a problem & outline a possible solution according to specific guidelines, as suggested by an existing case.
2. Case as a learning experience as to what worked , what did not & why.

Analysis Of A Historical Case Broken Into 4 Parts.

1. A summary & Research based purposes of PR actions;
2. Additional research into publics, an assessment of the impact of problem, situation or proposed action & an explanation of what was done to deal with the problem.
3. Detailed description of the institution involved in the problem.
4. Consideration & evaluation of what worked pretty well & what could have been improved.

Images Of Public Relations

5 Kinds

●The Mirror Image.

This is the “people” especially its leaders believe to be the impression outsiders have about the organization.

●The Current Image

This is the one held by people outside the organization & it may be based on experience or on poor information and understanding.

●The Wish Image

This is the desired image, the one which management wishes to achieve.

●The Corporate Image

This is the image of the organization itself rather than that of the products or services.

●The Multiple Image

A number of individuals, branches or other representations can each create a particular image which does not conform to a uniform image for the total organization.

Lesson 39PR AND PRINTING PROCESSES*Overview

Printing is and has been an important tool of public relations. It is important that a PR professional should know about the printing processes, its fundamentals and its various important segments required for outstanding results etc. besides explaining about different processes and printing methods.

Why is printing important in PR?

---A principle medium for disseminating information, a primary function of PR.

Fundamentals Of Printing

- Types & uses of printed material in public relations.
- Methods of distributing public relations printed matter.
- Printing processes & techniques.
- Preparing copy for printing.
- Typography.
- Engraving.

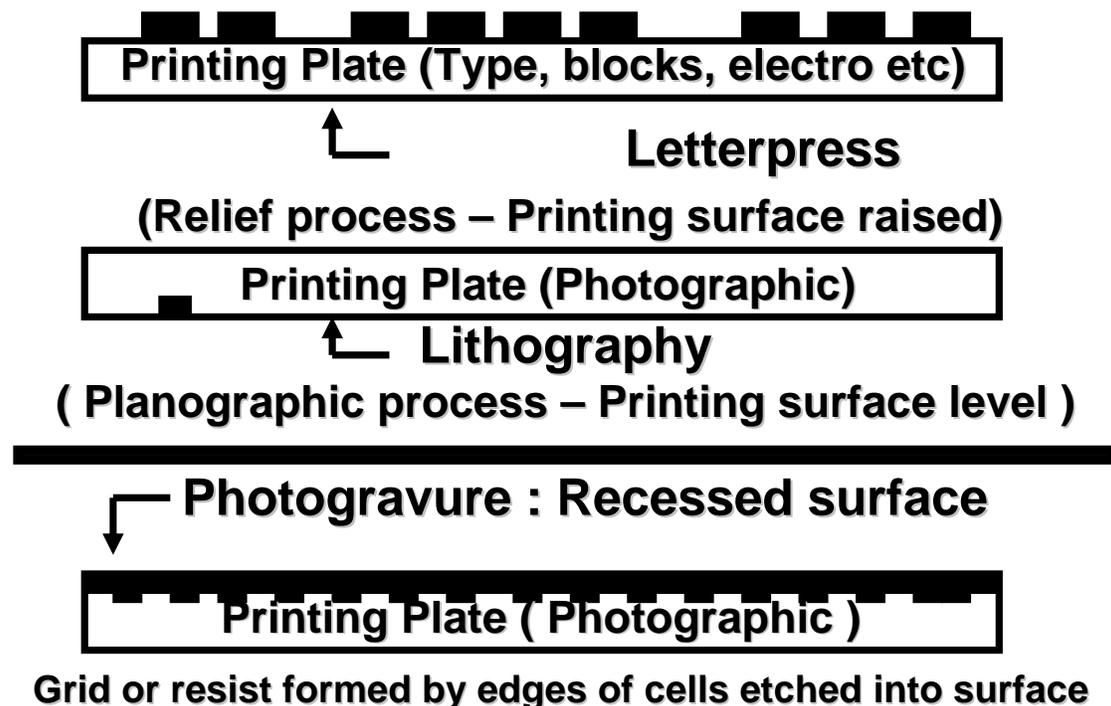

Why Important?

PR professional should know about print, printers, printing methods & printing Requirements.

Generally

Important to distinguish between 5 main processes of printing.

1. Letterpress 2. Lithography
3. Photogravure 4. Flexography
5. Silk Screen

PR and Printing Processes

Typography: The point System

Letterpress words in metal, while wooden words used for printing large posters.

Typefaces (individual type designs) are measured by point system originating to USA.

Typical typestyles were 6, 12 & so on e.g.

See below:

Fonts: A in 12 points A in 20 points A in 24 points & so on

Style: A in ARIAL style A in Calligrapher style & so on Different Names Of Fonts In Use

ARIAL, BROADWAY, CALLIGRAPHER, ALGERIAN, BAZOOKA, HEATHER, CASTELLAR, FORTE, LUCIDA, SCRIBBLE, GEORGIA & TIMES NEW ROMAN

Letterpress

It is a printing process that works by taking hard type (lead, magnesium, and polymer) applying ink to it and the having it striking paper under great pressure. It works in much the same way a rubber stamp works except the hard type actually penetrates the paper leaving a product that has depth and feel. Both can be adjusted by varying the amount of pressure.

Offset Printing

In the early part of 20th century, it was discovered that ink could be transferred from the lithographic surface to an intermediate rubber surface & then to paper. The rubber intermediate, called a blanket, can transfer ink to paper and to a wide variety of materials that cannot be printed directly, including plastics & metals. As the soft blanket conforms to the texture of the surface to be printed, lithographic image quality is unrivaled.

Photogravure Printing

Photogravure prints an image from an etched copper engraving plate that is created from a transparency of a photographic image. The photogravure printing process produces a photographic image composed of fine lines rather than dots.

Silk Screen Printing

This is based on the Stencil principle. The printing area being cutout to allow the ink or paint to be pressed through the space which is covered with a screen of silk, nylon or organdie mesh. This is an old Chinese invention.

Types Of Paper Used For Printing

1. Newsprint

A cheap, absorbent paper suitable for newspapers.

2. Offset paper

A super calendared & polished paper suitable for magazines, letterheads, prestigious stationery.

3. Imitation Art

A polished paper with china clay content.

4. Art Paper

A high class paper with a coating of china clay or similar substance on one or both sides which is highly polished.

5. Antique Paper

A very rough, bulky, absorbent paper.

Some important tips for printing.

Copy Tips

- Copy should be typewritten in double spaced lines.
- At least 1 inch should be allowed for margins on left & right side of paper.
- Don't carry a paragraph to another page.

- Type only on one side of paper.

PR And Printing Processes

- Place the word “continued or more” at the bottom of page if copy continues to next page.
- Number pages.
- Clearly indicate end of copy.

Artwork Tips

Photos, drawings, tint blocks & other decorative matter should be marked for size & position in the finished job.

Layout Tips

- In selecting type variations for a layout select type that will reflect the message you wish to convey.
- Select type variations which will harmonize & avoid too many type variations.
- Best to confine to family of one type family.

Fundamentals Of Printing

- Types & uses of printed material in public relations.
- Methods of distributing public relations printed matter.
- Printing processes & techniques.
- Preparing copy for printing.
- Typography.
- Engraving.

Lesson 40PUBLIC SPEAKING -- A PR TOOL*Overview

Public relations professional has very often either to speak or make arrangements and prepare its management chief or other department heads to deliver speeches for various reasons at different occasions. It is important that these should be well written, well spoken and convey clearly the objective for which these are being made. In this lecture we will inform the students about various stages and advantages of making such speeches and how to conduct them and use these to the advantage of the organization.

_____ “Just saying a few words”---- Basically this implies that to speak less but with authority and with facts will be the best and effective policy. This implies that it is the best and a most desirable low key & high quality approach to PR

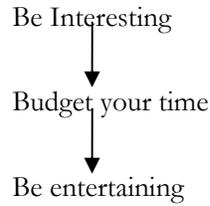

Key Benefits

- It helps promote you as an expert in PR.
- It develops awareness of your company, group or cause.
- It offers you an opportunity to obtain feedback from people you do business with.
- It helps generate sales & business leads.
- It is good means of networking with potential contacts.
- It generates follow up opportunities to speak to other interested groups.
- It is cost effective. You don't pay to make speeches & very often it can actually earn you money.

How To Prepare

In order to be effective it is imperative that the speaker should answer following questions.

- Who will be in the audience & how many of them will there be?
- What will be their interest?
- Will they be male or female or both & of what age?
- What attitudes will they have, about your subject & the world in general?
- Are they hostile to certain subjects & enthusiastic about others?
- Are there issues particularly troubling them at the moment?
- How much do they know about the subject?
- Has the audience listened to a similar talk recently?
- How long will you be expected to talk?
- Will there be question answer session afterwards?
- Will there be a PA (public address) system to amplify your voice?

What to say?How To Develop Your Speech

1. Decide key points.
2. Create a logical order.
3. Draft the speech.
4. Your final notes.

Preparing To Speak

- Practice makes perfect.(Rehearse and read it many times)
- Delivering your speech.(Style) Speak slowly, clearly and do not shout.
- Case history: (Without preparation many speakers cut a sorry figure.)
- Following up your speech.(Distribute your speech to the press)

Why You Might Turn Down Speech

- It will take too long to research & write the speech.
- It won't lead to other opportunities.
- You can make a more profitable speech elsewhere on the same night.
- Not enough of the right people will hear your speech to warrant the effort.
- There may be others to speak who you don't want to speak against.

- PR man does not often understand the operations of the company.
- PR man frequently remains ignorant or unaware about company’s immediate problems.
- PR man is too sensitive on the point of whether his advice is taken or not.

Moves Towards Professionalism.

5 major factors that retarded maturity of PR as a profession.

- Grew very rapidly.
- Covers exceedingly wide scope.
- Forces within & outside created misunderstanding.
- Best pr service is often intangible & comparatively immeasurable.
- Very little enforcement of defined standards pr professionals required to meet

Measurability

- Public Relations must deal with changes in attitude.
- Public Relations must lead its target and not follow it.
- Public Relations should probe into the minds of people.
- Public Relations should make use of the greatest resource i.e. human intellect & creativeness.

Today's Technology & PRToday's PR Professional should know

- Use of computers for storing, sending, receiving & printing information & art.
- About growth of satellite transmission, cable video.
- Growth of specialized pr services.
- Computerized graphic design services.

Key Points -- Six "S" Theory

- Strong competition.
- Stiff opposition.
- Serious opinion leaders.
- Systematic evaluation.
- Social demands.
- Skeptical press.

Lesson 42DREAMS & REALITIES OF PR*Overview

In this lecture the students will be apprised of the dreams and realities of PR. The difference between image and reputation will be explained, besides informing them regarding the ways in which PR professional can take charge of the identity of an organization.

What do you mean “That’s good PR”?

- We sense presence of good PR because it gives us a favourable impression.
- We approve of it because it confirms our needs & wants of the moment.
- We do or admire PR for its planned effect on others.

Why Bother About Finer Points If PR Does The Trick?

- PR offers no quick fix even when it promises to.
- PR does not just happen, nor is it result of an aptitude or instinct.
- PR is unable to do a good job with substandard materials. In fact it exposes weaknesses.
- PR can be the impetus to getting the product right first by attending to finer points before developing the PR policy.

Difference Between Image & Reputation

- Reputation is based on all impressions gained by the publics.
- Image is based on awareness, perceptions & approval.
- Reputation is based on beliefs developed from distance, without benefit of contact.
- Image is composite perception of a company, its products & services.

Can PR Be Self Taught?

- But patience & application is needed for sustained success.
- PR techniques are easy to learn.
- How to books & courses can be used.
- PR practice is wide ranging & concentration on certain areas is likely to secure satisfying results earlier than expected.

PR Irons Out Ups & Downs Of Daily Operations?

- Understanding of human behaviour.
- Anticipation of future trends & their consequences.
- Harmonization of conflicting private & public interests.

- Generation of greater goodwill internally & externally.
- Avoidance of misunderstandings & disputes.
- Promotion of positive corporate culture.

What Has PR To Do With Education?

There are 3 Key areas where PR supports education

- Lobbying of decision-makers in Government & local government.
- Issues management, which is probably of greatest importance internally.
- Community relations, where emphasis is likely to be on support for parent oriented events & interests.

Do Small Businesses Need PR To Survive?

- A food manufacturer may depend upon a few buyers representing major food retailers or department stores.
- A professional services company may have half a dozen retained clients such as large companies or local authorities.
- A specialist subcontractor may work mainly for just 2 or 3 of its industry's leading names.

Still PR Will Be Essential...For

- Start ups --- to lure broad spread of customers.
- Additionally --how it gets on with its sources of finance ,suppliers & other key publics.

Who Takes Charge Of Identity?

- Corporate values as reflected in the way “things get done?”
- The brands, to optimize the reputation strengths.
- Service characteristics, so that the identity complements them.
- Sponsorships to emphasize corporate social responsibility.
- Design, for coherent appearance & ready recognition.
- Age & structure of the organization to ensure consistency & credibility.

Lesson 43CHANGING INTO OVERDRIVE*Overview

In many situations PR acts or moves as an “over drive” mode, In fact it has to be very proactive without proving expensive and ensure results beneficial for the organization. Moreover, it would also be discussed whether exhibitions should be held or not and what are the advantages of such exhibitions.

How Proactive Should Be For An Effective PR Presence?

- Are we obtaining our fair share of shout?
- How much can we turn into usable intelligence?
- Does our image & our reputation satisfy our needs?
- How are we doing at meeting our customer’s communication expectations?
- Can we fairly claim to be creative in what we are doing?

How To Maintain Momentum Without Increasing Costs?

- Momentum implies a growing level of commitment which might need extra expenditure.
- In PR work curtailing cost may be possible for a while. (e.g.) larger the public to be addressed larger the cost.)
- Going to opinion leaders direct a good way to cut costs.

- Argentinians denied access to their bank deposits demonstrate volubly before the news media.

“In fact PR is humanity’s new mechanism for talking with or shouting at , next door or across the world”

Should We Do Exhibitions?

Think Hard! -- Consider choices! Then ask following questions?

- How long has the event been going?
- What official support does it enjoy?
- Are there any supporting conferences?
- Is it a trade ,public or combined event?
- What is the reputation of organizer?
- What have been recent attendances?
- What other hard facts can the organizer provide?

Important Key Components

- Evaluation

What If TV Wants Interview At Short Notice?

- Which programme, what transmission time & how long on air?
- Is the interview to be in studio, at an outdoor location or on our premises?
- What is the subject to be discussed, what are topics to be included?
- Does the interviewer has sufficient information to work on
- Can we have a “dry run beforehand?”

Are There Any Golden Rules To Write Press Releases?

- Who did it / is doing it / will be doing it?
- What was happening / is happening / will happen?
- Where did it happen / is it happening / will it happen?
- When did it happen / is it happening / will it happen?
- Why did it happen / is happening / will it happen?
- How did it happen / is it happening / will it happen?

What Is A Press Pack?

- A collection of information compiled for use by a journalist.
- It may comprise a press release, fact sheets, captioned photographs & relevant printed matter ,e.g. corporate brochure.
- Generally prepared for an event like an exhibition or annual general meeting.

Why Write A Letter To The Editor?

- It reminds the editor of who the sender is,& his or her reputation as a source of “good stories”, well researched & written.
- It is a neat way of making an enquiry or offering “follow up”, where seeing the item is necessary first before the receiver can respond.
- It can be means of developing the contact further, by sketching possible future contact, availability of more or different material , forthcoming events & so on.

How do we know if we are making the most of our PR function?

- How often have departments called on PR for support?
- Is senior management involving the PR before decisions are taken, or only afterwards?
- Does PR get involved in communications between departments?
- Are we seeing PR more as a management function or a technical service?
- Could we be using PR more in our “futures” thinking?

Lesson 44GETTING ON WITH PR*Overview

There will be lot of upheavals and problems in practicing public relations. Despite all this public relation professionals should not get deterred and they should get on with PR for the achievement of the desired or required objectives. This chapter will explain the problems and methods how to get on in various situations.

Why Marketing & PR People See Things Differently?

- Marketing is solely concerned with customers, while PR is about creating most favourable overall conditions for the organization.
- Marketing is highly focused on delivering sales, while PR scans entire operational environment.
- Marketing aims to identify, anticipate & satisfy customer's needs profitably, while PR embraces all communication designed to best serve the organization's interests.
- Marketing directs its energies towards external markets ,while PR works both outside & inside organization.

What Is “Marketing Public Relations”?

When PR is part of promotion within marketing mix, to fulfill marketing objectives , as against PR relating to Finance or HRM it is described as “marketing public relations”.

PR also has keen interest in other aspects of marketing mix too, e.g. in

1. Physical evidence. (corporate identity)
2. People. (customer-contacting employees)
3. Process. (service production & delivery)
4. Product. (or service) – 5.Price.
6. Place. (distribution)

Why Should Marketing Take PR Seriously?

- Educating markets ahead of marketing activities;
- Maintaining & strengthening brand loyalties;
- Generating direct sales leads;
- Identifying & evaluating potential markets;
- Motivating sales force & distribution chain;
- Reviving & sustaining mature & declining products.

What Can PR Contribute To The Development Of The Marketing Plan?

- Provide market intelligence;
- Assist in gathering data;
- Identify any potential inconsistencies in messages, as between customers & other publics;
- Indicate potential communications synergies;
- Offer a view based on broader experience of total operating environment.

What Are Main Areas Where Other Departments Should Consult With The PR Function?

- To obtain advice about a communication problem;
- For help in communicating externally e.g. with a supplier;
- To facilitate or mediate internal communications between units;

- To bring news & views from outside;
- To undertake marketing communications.

Where does PR fit in the structure?

---- Because PR “spans boundaries” in all directions; it supports all sub systems, including those concerned with production, maintenance, planning & change management

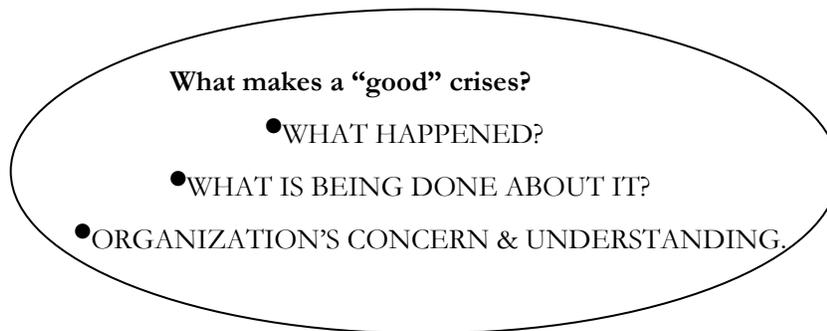

So PR people should

- Liaise between organization & external publics & individuals;
- Assist other sub systems within organization in their communications direct with outside world;
- Assist other sub systems in their communications one with another;
- PR should be found at any given time working throughout most of the organization.

What should we look for in trying to avoid crises?

Aim to avoid -----

- Anyone who says that there will be never be one;
- Anyone who says crises are strictly for others , not for us;
- Anyone who says planning for crises is a waste of time.

What Can Go Wrong?

- Mass panic, making nonsense of best – laid plans;
- Too many people wanting to be spokes persons;
- Wanting to run away from media enquiries;
- Getting angry with the intrusiveness of media;
- Speculation about causes to satisfy media demands or personal motives;
- Not being prepared to ask for help;
- Not listening to friends who want to help;
- Allowing lawyers to dictate how to deal with the problem;
